In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

With its roaching of snowy ostrich plume and its archaic elegance, the fore-and-aft hat worn by the lieutenant-governor to the Thursday opening was very fine head-gear indeed.

But the Throne speech which issued from under its beak, though spoken loud and clear, was so feeble an effort that I regret Mr. Pearkes as Her Majesty's emissary was required to lend it the dignity of his office.

I don't propose to waste much space on the premier's wet firecracker, except to note that Mr. Bennett, usually a brilliant showman, must do better than this if he hopes to retain the favor of provincial voters more inclined to look Social Credit gift horses in the teeth than they were a year ago.

Goodies were promised by the premier, and one danger constant when a party retains its place by bread and games—goodies the taxpayer expects to receive.

Two Are New

So much for Mr. Bennett's failure to magic the anticipated rabbit from under the ostrich-trimmed hat. I offer you now a more amiable spectacle: the seating in a traditional and graceful little ceremony of two new members in our House.

One was Dr. Patrick L. McGeer, Vancouver-Point Grey, whose mother wore a red Liberal rose for the occasion. But since Thursday was a day for hats, we'll pass on to Mrs. Margaret Francis Hobbs, Revelstoke's NDP gift to the House.

Mrs. Hobbs' bonnet, on an afternoon and in a place where the millinery adds piquancy to a scene already florid, was a veritable tossed salad in new-leaf green. In dress to match, Mrs. Hobbs rose as two seniors of her party strode down the turkey-red carpet and halted before her.

One on either side, they escorted her toward the Speaker, North Okanagan's Hon. L. H. Shantz.

Hand In Palm

Durable Arthur Turner from Vancouver East cupped her left hand delicately in his palm; and thus they proceeded up the aisle to the Speaker's chair—to recognition, acceptance, and a desk-thumping ovation from ministers and members.

For myself, observing from a press gallery where I last wore my elbows shiny a good many years past, Thursday was a day of ghosts. The shade who stood clearest was a heavy-set little man with a big voice; eloquent, truculent, and almost hypnotically persuasive.

His name was Thomas Dufferin Pattullo, Cassan-like in 1941, Premier Pattullo battled against the proposed coalition which he felt would cripple the Liberal party he had spent 13 years revitalizing in B.C.

Finally he loaded his political fortunes on an ultimatum, hurled it, and lost.

Later, in a crowded room of the Hotel Georgia suite where his party broke Duff Pattullo's sword for him, reporters asked the old warrior for a statement.

What words he muttered, I forget, but this I do remember: while he spoke, his tears dripped on my notes.

Not the Same

"The only Liberal left," as he termed himself, sat on until 1945. But he was never the same man.

I remember others who once graced our House—John Hart with his kingfisher crest of silver-white hair... the Winches, deliberate father and hothead son, and very good men both... but it was Duff Pattullo's ghost that kept returning Thursday as we learned among other trenchant facts that pig iron production has risen at Kimberley.

Sign of the Dog

Simple folk who believe in signs and portents read any number of meanings into appearance of dog at formal opening of legislature Thursday. For instance, it was black—so, who is frightened? It was a pooch—so, was throne speech a mutt? Was it an expression of opinion of government? Or was it merely one of Victoria's stray canine oafs which invariably clowns up such an occasion?

'Empty Speech' Leaves House In Quandary

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter.

The B.C. legislature opened Thursday with what Opposition leaders branded "an empty speech" from the throne outlining few government plans for 1963.

It tricked the balloon of speculation which was puffed up by Premier Bennett's refusal to release advance copies as usual to the press.

The speculation was that it contained something of extreme importance and that the important thing concerned a new deal on the government's B.C. Electric takeover.

B.C. Electric wasn't mentioned. Nor was any new power policy.

The 2,000-word speech read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was longer and yet less newsy than usual.

NO MENTION

There was no mention of the premier's promise to double the homeowner grant, nor many other legislative and policy expectations.

Asked why the secrecy, Mr. Bennett later told reporters: "That's this government, my friends—fair play for everybody and special privileges for none."

If there was any real reason, it was apparently the fact that the speech contained so little news.

See Stories Pages 2, 10

The stories about the secrecy and B.C. Electric made up for the disappointing contents.

REMOVE TOLLS

The closest thing to a surprise was the promise to remove tolls from Vancouver's First and Second Narrows bridges.

If the speech had any special slant, it was for education.

Legislation, already promised, making Victoria College an independent university was confirmed. So were bigger grants for Victoria and the University of B.C.

There will be bigger grants for schools and for technical and vocational education, scholarships and bursaries.

There will be amendments (unspecified) to the Public Schools Act.

The government formally announced approval of the establishment.

$33 Million Surplus To Pay Bridge Debt

Premier Bennett will splurge $33,000,000 of his budget surplus this year to pay off the debt on five toll bridges, the Times learned today.

The tolls will come off April 1. Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi disclosed in an interview.

"There'll be no debt," he said.

"Immediately the bridges are toll-free they'll be paid for."

The five bridges are Vancouver's First and Second Narrows, and Okanagan Lake, Nelson and Agassiz.

Total outstanding debt on these bridges at last March 31 was $33,209,998.

Mr. Gagliardi said the debt will be paid off from the government's general revenue surplus fund, built up from budget to budget over the years.

This is the debt breakdown on the five bridges as of March 31 last:

First and Second Narrows $17,476,689; Okanagan $7,865,421; Nelson $4,009,471; Agassiz $3,855,417.

The bridges all received government subsidies to meet operational costs. The three up-country bridges all lost money.

Shares of B.C. Power Corp. might be announced. The stock closed Thursday at $22½ just prior to the reading of the speech at the opening of the B.C. legislature.

The stock was quoted at $21½ at the opening today, eased off to $21, moved up slightly to $21¼ and then slid back to $21 again near the close.

WALTON COLE

Reuter's Chief Dies at 50

LONDON (Reuters) — Walton Adamson Cole, 50, general manager of Reuters news agency and one of the most distinguished figures in world journalism, died here today.

Cole collapsed in his office this afternoon.

He recently had suffered a severe bronchial attack, but appeared to be making a gradual recovery and had returned to work.

EDITOR AT 35

Tony Cole, as he was known to news executives and friends in practically every part of the five continents, in a meteoric climb to the top of his profession achieved the editorship of the world news agency when he was 35.

He was only 47 when he was appointed to its executive direction as general manager.

With a possibly unparalleled record of travel on Reuters affairs, he had established close contacts with leaders of the newspaper business in all parts of the world.

He had met and talked with most of the world's political leaders—among them President Kennedy, ex-president Eisenhower, Premier Khrushchev, Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Yi, heads of European states and practically all Commonwealth leaders.

WIRE BRIEFS

5 Years In Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Albert Jacobs, 29, was sentenced to five years today for a skid-road knife attack last year. He was originally charged with attempted murder in a stabbing attack on former Vancouver boxer Albert Meldrum.

Present Rules Stay

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is prepared to carry on under the present Commons rules rather than take special steps to speed up Commons approval of the 1962-63 spending program.

Aid for Infants

OTTAWA (UPI) — Health and Welfare Minister J. Waldo Monteith announced today that the government will provide an additional $200,000 annually for the medical rehabilitation of infants deformed by the drug thalidomide.

Refugees Reach U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American freighter, the Shirley Lykes, brought 1,170 more Cuban refugees through choppy seas today to refuge in the United States.

Sons Still In Square

VANCOUVER (CP) — For the ninth straight day, Sons of Freedom Doukhobors arrived in downtown Victory Square early today.

Spain Asks Parley

MADRID (UPI) — Spain has officially told the United States it intends to seek new negotiations over the U.S. military bases in this country, it was reported today.

Judgment Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada reserved judgment today on an appeal by two Edmonton men, Raymond Workman and William Huculak, against their convictions for the capital murder of Edmonton golf professional Frank Willey.

Dock Strike Ends

NEW YORK (UPI) — The International Longshoremen's Association today ordered picket lines pulled down immediately along the east and Gulf coasts and said longshoremen would return to work Saturday. (See Page 23).

FULTON UNOPPOSED

VANCOUVER (CP) — E. Davie Fulton, a political veteran at 46, stepped into the British Columbia political arena today.

He was unopposed for the leadership of the provincial Progressive Conservative Party when nominations closed at noon today, the second day of the party's annual meeting and leadership convention. (See Page 5.)

Weather In Europe Warms Up

LONDON (AP) — Europe's killer winter—which already has claimed more than 200 lives—showed signs today of slackening its grip on parts of northern Europe.

Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Bulgaria and parts of the Soviet Union were hit as the winter's fury concentrated on the south.

In Denmark, Germany and Belgium it was getting a little warmer. Britain, almost totally snowbound for more than a month, expected a slight thaw within 24 hours.

The normally sunny coasts of Spain and Portugal were struck by fierce storms. Nearly 300 persons waited through the night for rescue from two Spanish ships in difficulties in storm-ravaged bays of southern Spain.

Gales and rainstorms struck at the southern Spanish coast, smashing several fishing boats. Storms in Portugal sank two fishing craft of Vila Real and destroyed 14 more in Sagres Harbor.

Cold Threatens Southern Crops

CHICAGO (AP) — Winter's longest and worst siege of cold weather clung to much of the United States today, causing a sharp rise in the death toll and threatening damage to crops in the southland.

The huge cold air mass covered most of the country from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast. It knifed deep into the south, where lower temperatures of the century were recorded in some areas Thursday.

City Men Missing

KAMLOOPS (CP) — RCMP here have been asked to locate two cattle buyers who left Victoria for the interior Jan. 21 and have not arrived.

Frank McGrath, 42, View Royal, and Derek "Butch" Belcher, 35, of Colwood, were to attend a cattle sale here Tuesday.

Mrs. McGrath reported to police she had not heard from her husband since he left home.

LAST SOLO

Longest of U.S. orbital flights may be undertaken May 2 by astronaut Gordon Cooper. Current plans call for 18 orbits of earth in 27 hours, or up to 22 orbits if flight is going well.

'Let Us Keep Pledged Word'

Times News Services

OTTAWA—Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson today branded Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's refusal to make a firm commitment on nuclear weapons for Canada a complete evasion of national responsibility.

The Liberal leader, on the second day of a special Commons debate on defence, reiterated his party's contention that this country had no present alternative but to accept nuclear arms at home and abroad to meet commitments made more than three years ago. (See also Page 23).

"It is humiliating and dishonorable for Canada to make commitments and not discharge them," he said. "Canada cannot maintain a position of respect and influence in world affairs in such a situation."

The prime minister's stand, as outlined to last week's Conservative meeting, that the government should not make any firm commitment while western defence policy was in a state of flux was "only an argument for not doing anything," Pearson said.

"To us this is an excuse for inaction doesn't make any sense," he said. "Let us keep our pledged word; let's end this complete evasion of responsibility."

"We can only do that by acquiring nuclear warheads for our tactical weapons."

Pearson argued that this country has been committed to a nuclear role "beyond any shadow of doubt" since 1959.

He read into the record a series of statements by Diefenbaker and the then defence minister George Pearkes suggesting that a bilateral agreement to acquire nuclear warheads would be negotiated with the United States.

"This all confirms from the highest sources in the Canadian government what NATO and Canadian military leaders have been saying is the case—that there is indeed a nuclear commitment to the people of Canada and to our allies," the Liberal leader said.

Indications were that Diefenbaker would put the government's position on the record before the day was out.

Terms Norstad 'NATO Statesman'

Besides reiterating his party's stand on nuclear arms, Pearson made several other points, including: A defence of retiring NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad who, during a recent farewell visit to this country, said Canada needed nuclear arms to meet its NATO commitments. Pearson called Norstad a "NATO statesman," and accused the government and opposition parties of "denigrating him and tearing him down" simply because his views did not agree with theirs.

An attack on anti-Americanism in Canada as "no proof of our Canadianism, but only our immaturity." While life beside a giant neighbor created problems and required constant attention by this country, "it must always be remembered that the greatest danger we have of losing our freedom comes not from U.S. imperialism but from Communist imperialism," he said.

Without specifically referring to French President Charles de Gaulle, a strong attack on "jealous and petty nationalism" that could "kill" the NATO alliance. National independence must be tempered by a recognition of the need for interdependence if the West was to remain strong.

'Dishonest and Hypocritical'

Rejection of a suggested swan of a disbanded Warsaw pact on grounds that Soviet control over the Communist bloc would be unchanged even if the Warsaw pact was dissolved.

A charge that the Diefenbaker government during the past five years, had given parliament less information and discussion on defence policy than any legislature in the free world.

Rejection of arguments that nuclear weapons was a moral issue on grounds such a stand was "dishonest and hypocritical" unless Canada quit NATO and refused to sell uranium to any nation for military purposes.

He said three nuclear warhead carriers acquired at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars—the CF-104 strike-reconnaissance aircraft, the Voodoo jet interceptor and the Bomarc missile—are useless without the warheads.

It was completely absurd to argue, as the government had done, that the Bomarc and other nuclear carriers could be armed after the start of a world-wide emergency.

Mr. Pearson said the Cuban crisis demonstrated that Canada should reach an agreement with the U.S. before a new emergency can develop on the armament of the three nuclear carriers.

"This has become an intolerable situation."

British Newsmen Jailed for Contempt

LONDON (Reuters) — Desmond Clough, 33, a London newspaper man who refused to disclose his sources of information to a British security tribunal, was sentenced to six months in jail today after being found guilty Thursday of contempt of court.

Clough, defence reporter for the mass-circulation Daily Sketch, said after his conviction on the contempt charge by England's lord chief justice, Lord Parker, he would appeal the verdict.

Clough's case was handed on to the high court last week after he refused to disclose his sources to a tribunal investigating naval security following the trial last year of admiralty clerk John Vassall, jailed for 18 years for spying for Russia.

The tribunal asked Clough to name his sources for a newspaper report that Vassall's espionage had helped Soviet trawler fleets to arrive with "uncanny precision" in the area of NATO sea exercises.

Clough told Lord Parker it was a point of conscience not to betray the person who gave him the information. He added that the source was employed in Whitehall, the British government administrative centre.

New University to Grant First Degrees by 1964

This autumn's graduating class at Victoria College should be the first to receive University of Victoria degrees. "That is the way we have planned it. We hope the government agrees," said college council president Joseph Clearhue after reading of the throne speech Thursday.

Puget Sound Area Jolted By Tremor

SEATTLE (AP)—An earth shock, apparently centring midway between here and Mount Rainier, was widely felt in the Puget Sound area Thursday.

The University of Washington seismograph timed it at 1:43 p.m., Norman Rasmussen, seismologist, said. He called it a "No. 4 or 5" on the Mercalli scale, strong enough to be felt but not severe enough to cause damage to buildings.

The tremor was reported here, at Bremerton across Puget Sound, at Tacoma, and was felt more strongly in the valley area around Auburn, south of here.

Michael Schwartz, Seattle, said a yard-square section of his concrete basement sank about six inches.

Rasmussen placed the epicentre as probably 30-40 miles southeast of here near Carbonado, same source as a slightly stronger Dec. 31 shock. No severe damage occurred then, either.

The tremor was recorded at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain as a "moderate shock." Officials there said they doubted if any Victoria residents felt the shock.

It was a big day for the retired judge who smiled and winked at a friend as Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes read the passage promising a government bill to establish the college as a university.

He broke ranks from the council in the past month to publicly demand a university bill for Victoria College in advance of a special report on higher education in the province which will be released Monday.

Judge Clearhue, after the throne speech, said he hoped the official status change would be made by July 1.

Students who graduate this spring will still receive University of B.C. degrees but the following year Victoria may grant its own degrees to graduates.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, who was chairman of the development board and public subscription fund that made the change possible, said the government announcement was a "culmination of the hopes, aspirations and work of a lot of people in the community."

The three reeves and local MLA's also welcomed the announcement enthusiastically.

WORTHWHILE SOUVENIR FOR GUESTS AT OPENER

You can tell the players by the program in the legislature.

What's more it's in color. A special program was handed out to the 627 guests attending the opening ceremony Thursday.

Usually they get a flimsy, rather detailed and complicated program in small type. This year they got the bonus with a color picture of the Buildings on the front, another of the legislative chamber on the back.

Inside are full-page profiles of Speaker Hugh Shantz and Sergeant-at-Arms D. G. Ashby and an easy-to-follow seating plan.

Mr. Shantz said it was his idea. He had always felt the guests should get a worthwhile souvenir, he said.

Galleries Waited in Vain For Throne Speech 'Bomb'

A large and attentive crowd, jammed the floor and galleries of the House here on Thursday to hear the 34-minute Throne Speech read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes to mark the opening of the fourth session of the 26th B.C. legislature.

Only two announcements resulted in murmured reaction from the 627 guests: the first announcing the proposal of a bill to establish Victoria College as the University of Victoria and the second the intention to remove tolls from five B.C. Toll Authority bridges.

The guests sat tense and quiet through the earlier part of the speech as if expecting a sensational announcement. When they realized that no violent upheaval was being forecast by Mr. Pearkes, many began fidgeting in their seats.

The opposition members were also relatively impassive throughout the speech but most of them allowed themselves a smile at a reference to the employment rate in B.C.

being at its highest rate in the history of the province.

The five Liberal members each wore red roses as boutonnières while Opposition Leader Strachan had a sprig of white heather on his coat lapel.

He said this is "for luck and to remind me of the traditional part which my native Scotland has played in the development of our democratic form of government."

A one-minute silence was observed for Mrs. Buda Brown, minister without portfolio and member for Vancouver-Point Grey, who died last summer.

The two new members of the legislature, Mrs. Margaret Hobbs (NDP — Revelstoke) and Dr. Pat McGeer (Lib. — Vancouver-Point Grey) were escorted by their party leaders to the Speaker's chair and introduced to Speaker Hugh Shantz.

Mrs. Hobbs, who was wearing a green ensemble, won her seat in a September byelection to fill the position which was left vacant when her husband, George, died during the 1962 session.

Dr. McGeer won the byelection in December to fill the vacancy left by the death of Mrs. Brown.

The colorful ceremonies outside the Buildings began on the arrival of the lieutenant-governor.

More than 400 persons, one of the largest session-opening crowds in years, gathered under cool, cloudy but rainless skies.

They watched as invited guests, some in dress uniforms glittering with medals, their wives and other women guests resplendent in new hats, arrived to jam into folding chairs sardined into the floor of the chamber.

A 100-man honor guard from the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, was drawn up in two ranks along the roadway in front of the main steps leading into the buildings. The guard wore dark green hats and khaki uniforms slashed with white belts.

SHARP CONTRAST

To the right of the steps, the 46-man band of the Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack, under music director Lt. Leonard Camplin, was drawn up on the grass, their crimson jackets contrasting sharply.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes arrived at 2:45 p.m. and stood near the bottom of the steps, flanked by two RCMP officers. His aides-de-camp, Lt. D. G. Uhrich, RCN; Capt. R. W. Rudd, CD; Flight-Lt. G. W. Fisher, CD, RCAF; and RCMP Inspector J. J. Atherton, stood behind.

Following a 15-gun salute, the lieutenant-governor inspected the honor guard and then entered the building, escorted by Premier Bennett, the deputy provincial secretary, L. J. Wallace, and the premier's executive assistant, W. C. Budd.

After reading the speech, Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes left, and the House was adjourned at 4 p.m. until 3 p.m. today.

'EMPTY SPEECH'

ishment of junior colleges across the province, a contentious issue, but it specified they should be "at recommended locations."

The speech promised forthcoming legislation "freeing completely from tolls" the First and Second Narrows bridges in Vancouver. Tolls will also be dropped, as already announced, on the Okanagan, Nelson and Agassiz bridges. There was no mention of how or when the Vancouver tolls would be eliminated.

Another previous promise, raises for civil servants, was also confirmed. The throne speech said all government employees will get them.

Some new plans are coming from the attorney-general's department.

They include "measures for broadening correctional facilities, particularly with respect to alcoholism and probation."

This presumably means a new alcohol treatment centre, requested repeatedly and which has been under government "study."

ANOTHER JUDGE

They also include legislation providing the appointment of another judge to the B.C. Supreme Court.

"The office of public trustee will be established to consolidate a number of existing functions for greater efficiency," the speech adds, but gives no clue as to what these functions might be.

The city of Duncan is promised new provincial offices. Nanaimo a mental health clinic (already announced), a new virus laboratory at an unspecified location.

In the field of labor, for which the government has also already promised some new policies, the throne speech said that an industrial relations conference was planned. It also mentioned a labor-management pact for Columbia River development similar to the one set up last year for the Peace River power project.

COOL COLUMBIA

The speech made some glowing remarks about the Peace, but was noticeably cool about the Columbia, cooler even than 1962, when the throne speech predicted a construction start that year.

All it said this year: "I am advised by my government that its discussions with the government of Canada and the U.S. government relative to the development within the province of the Columbia River basin are proceeding."

$30 MILLION SPENT

The speech said $30,000,000 will have been spent on the Peace by the end of the current fiscal year, March 31. It predicted that within eight years the amount of electricity produced by B.C. Hydro will double.

An addition to the power picture this year will be report of the Fraser River Board which has been studying all aspects of development and conservation of the Fraser since 1938.

Otherwise, B.C. Hydro "is actively pursuing its program to extend efficient electrical service throughout the province."

The rest of the speech was mainly a record of achievements of 1962.

SCEPTICISM REMAINS

JFK Denies Cuba Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cuba's military might—and whether it is on the rise—is the subject of a Senate investigation beginning today with State Secretary Rusk as the first witness.

Rusk is expected to back President Kennedy's contention that there has been no new military buildup on the Caribbean island.

But despite this assertion by the president at his press conference Thursday, several Republican senators remain sceptical. And despite his renewed assumption of responsibility for failure of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, there is no slowing of a Republican drive for an independent investigation of the fiasco.

Kennedy said "the best information we have" from continued U.S. air surveillance and other intelligence is that one ship arrived in Cuba since the October crisis "which may have arms on it, possibly military cargo."

"There is no evidence that this ship carried any offensive weapons," he added.

Kennedy's appraisal of the state of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's arsenal contradicts reports Senator Kenneth B. Keating (Rep. N.Y.) and others say they have received. Their claim is that Castro has been getting additional weapons and now is militarily much stronger than he was six months ago.

These reports prompted chairman Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.) to call Rusk and Central Intelligence Agency representatives before his Latin American affairs subcommittee for closed-door testimony.

Kennedy dealt also with the nagging question of whether air support had been planned for the exile invaders.

"Obviously," he said, "if you are going to have United States cover, you might as well have a complete United States commitment, which would have meant a full-fledged invasion."

He stressed that at no time did the United States plan to use its own planes to fly missions over the invasion beach.

What was talked about, Kennedy continued, was an air strike by outmoded B-26 bombers flown by pilots not based in the United States. This was delayed from morning until afternoon, when the invaders already had gone ashore.

FAILED TO WORK OUT

"I think that the members of the brigade were under the impression that the planes which were available, which were the B-26 planes, would give them protection on the beach," the president said, adding:

"That did not work out. That was one of the failures."

Britain's construction industries employ more than 1,600,000 men, or more than six per cent of the working population.

JFK Asks French to Help Stand Against Communists

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy has appealed to French President de Gaulle to cast aside his differences and unite with Britain and the United States to strengthen the North Atlantic Alliance until the tide of communism loses its force and momentum.

While communism now is in "disarray," Kennedy said, it still controls more than 1,000,000,000 persons. Acting alone, neither the U.S. nor Europe could be certain of restraining Red expansion. For the West, the reality of danger could not be obscured by personal or national differences.

He told a press conference Thursday he has confidence in de Gaulle's pledge to respond to the needs of the alliance and "I hope that our confidence in him would be matched by his confidence in us."

Kennedy rebutted de Gaulle's argument for blocking Britain from the European Common Market. De Gaulle maintains Britain is not ready for admittance; that she is maritime, insular and has too many interests in other parts of the world. Kennedy countered that without Britain, there can be no unity in Europe.

Improvised nations are in great need of help and the U.S. hasn't sufficient resources to respond alone. That was another reason why the U.S. supported Britain's entry into the trade bloc. Together, the new Europe and the U.S. could meet the resources task on a basis of equity.

One day Europe may be so secure that the U.S. could withdraw its 400,000 troops.

De Gaulle said a week ago France could not accept integration in a NATO multilateral nuclear force because France feared the U.S. might not respond in the event Europe came under a nuclear threat. That, said Kennedy, is inaccurate.

On other issues, Kennedy emphasized the importance of the three-power nuclear test ban talks under way here but declined to give any progress report, saying there are many points to be settled and it would best to leave these to the negotiations table.

Evasion of Parliament

UNDER THE GUISE OF A procedural change the federal government is trying to get its appropriations of some six billion dollars approved without proper consideration by Parliament.

These appropriations were laid before Parliament almost a year ago, for the fiscal year ending March 31 next. Before they could be passed Parliament was dissolved. When the newly-elected Parliament met last September the government did not seriously press for their passage but financed by lump-sum votes, with the temporary agreement of the opposition.

Thus Parliament finds itself today with last spring's budget still not approved, only a few weeks before the government promises to introduce another budget.

In effect, the government now asks Parliament to approve huge sums of expenditure without any adequate examination and thus to surrender its primary power of the purse. This would be closure under another name and the worst affront that Parliament has ever accepted.

So long as the Social Credit Party will support the government (in fear of an election) the affront probably will be accepted. For the present the government lives as the prisoner of Messrs. Thompson and Caouette but its life remains precarious.

Before Parliament opened a few days ago Mr. Thompson issued what was in effect an ultimatum. He demands, first, easier credit to permit industrial and commercial expansion, and for public works; second, wide-ranging tax reforms, including tax reductions; and, third, the elimination of emergency tariff surcharges.

"If the Canadian government expects to continue in power these," says Mr. Thompson, from his home in Red Deer, "are the things they are going to have to act on in the budget."

The government has shown no sign of acting on these things in the budget. Instead, Senator McCutcheon has indicated that the surcharges must remain "a little longer" and Mr. Nowlan has rejected any thought of tax reductions. On the third question of credit policy what Mr. Thompson proposes is simply the old Social Credit magic of a wholesale currency inflation and this folly the government refuses to commit.

If Mr. Thompson is sincere in saying that he cannot support the government's present policy then he will vote against it when the budget is introduced and probably precipitate an early election.

But in politics things are seldom settled by any consistent formula and some deal between the government and Social Credit may yet be arranged. Everything will probably depend on the willingness of the Social Credit Party to face an election and obviously Mr. Thompson does not control his party. The real control rests with Mr. Caouette because he is backed by 25 Quebec members while Mr. Thompson is backed by only three from Alberta and British Columbia.

Does Mr. Caouette want an election? Are his Quebec followers prepared to risk the loss of their parliamentary seats and the new-found satisfaction of life in Ottawa? Or will they prefer to denounce the government every day in principle and vote for it in every pinch?

On the other hand, is the government prepared to maintain the credit and taxation policies laid down by Mr. Nowlan or will his more timid colleagues force him to retreat?

So far all these wrenching decisions have been postponed by Fabian tactics of which Mr. Diefenbaker is the supreme master but they cannot be postponed much longer.

A Very Odd Procedure

THE FLURRY OF SPECULATION evoked by Mr. Bennett's unusual action in withholding press copies of the Speech from the Throne until the address had actually begun proved groundless. There was no mention of the B.C. Electric takeover in the speech, and no reason why distribution of the document should have been delayed until after the stock markets closed.

In view of this false alarm, the Throne Speech proved even more prosaic than might have been the case. Most of the material contained in it had been expected, even promised. Such matters included wage increases for the civil service, removal of tolls from half a dozen bridges, enactment of legislation to give Victoria College university status, increases in the grants both to the College and the University of B.C., improvement of community health services and similar announcements.

Reports of industrial development throughout the province were encouraging, but there was no mention of urgently needed new arrangements for municipal revenues, nor of any likely breakthrough in the Columbia River power impasse.

The opening speech thus reveals nothing of possible government action on the main problems facing the province, and Mr. Bennett's little secrecy gambit—a premature April Fool joke on the press perhaps—leaves the public wondering.

More People Than Lifebelts?

THE MANAGER OF THE B.C. government ferries denies, in an interesting manner, a report of overloading. He says that no overloading was reported to him, that if there had been overloading it certainly would have been reported. Hence there was no overloading.

This is the answer given to a statement from a source The Times considers authentic which fixed the total number of passengers on a single Remembrance Day sailing at 1,218. There is life-saving equipment on the vessel in question for 1,000 persons.

The Times' informant has no axe to grind and is not seeking to make political capital over the operation of the government ferries. He is interested solely in public safety and the observance of the law to guarantee it.

His statement is disputed by the authorities. It should nevertheless make them somewhat more alert to possible danger created by excessive loads. We read, in this part of the world, of shocking tragedies when overloaded ferries in more heavily populated areas run into grief, capsizes, are struck by fire or founder. There should be no reason to risk hazards of overloading in this province.

The next holiday of importance in the near future is Easter. At that time many people will be moving from the Island to the mainland and back. They will make heavy demands for accommodation on convenient ferry runs.

It is to be hoped that the people who operate the ferries will be very sure that no more passengers are carried than can be fitted out with life-saving equipment.

There should be no further occasions on which safety measures are challenged, or the authorities feel themselves pressed to make some kind of denial.

"... Wonderful man, our Bob ... wonderful critic ..."

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

In View of All This, a New Era?

NIKITA S. Khrushchev's new course may now be charted with some confidence. For we now have rather complete data on how he means to deal with the Chinese, with the Berlin crisis, and last but not least, with President Kennedy.

Alsop

After the brutal comedy enacted at the East German Communist Party Congress, there is no longer any doubt at all that Khrushchev is entirely ready for, and perhaps eager for, a final rupture with his former Chinese Communist comrade-in-arms. He would like them to make the break, but this preference is purely tactical.

At the Berlin rally, Khrushchev's speech momentarily deceived a few observers. His suave call for unity of the Communist camp got less attention than his total intransigence on every question of substance in dispute between Moscow and Peking.

But the true state of affairs was soon revealed when the Chinese delegate, Wu Hsiu-chan, was publicly subjected to organized humiliation.

Open Invitation

The catcalls and Bronx cheers that drowned out Wu Hsiu-chan, beyond doubt by Khrushchev's own order, were an open and insulting invitation to Mao Tse-tung to proceed to a final rupture without further delay. Even if the invitation is not accepted, the rupture now seems virtually certain.

In his Berlin speech, Khrushchev also disposed of the Berlin crisis, at least for the time being, in a much more decisive way than most people have grasped.

He said that when the Berlin wall was erected on Aug. 13, the Communist state in East Germany "obtained that which is indispensable to any sovereign state," wherefore, he continued, "the conclusion of a German peace treaty is no longer the problem" it had been before the erection of the wall.

Thus the second Berlin crisis was, in effect, declared at an end. Just as the lifting of Stalin's blockade gave no insurance against the second crisis, so the termination of the second crisis gives no insurance against a third.

A favorable shift in the balance of power or, much more probably, galloping disunity among the Western allies, will at once invite a third crisis.

Crisis Over

At least the second crisis is over and done with, however, in the sense that there is no likelihood of an early renewal of Khrushchev's attempt to change the Berlin situation by threats and unilateral actions. Yet this does not mean an end to all discussion of Berlin. On the contrary, Khrushchev's recent dealings with President Kennedy are thought, by all the wisest American experts, to look forward to a resumption of talks about Berlin.

This is one of the several meanings seen here in Khrushchev's critically significant move to bring the nuclear test ban talks back to life. Khrushchev is believed to want an agreement with the U.S. on some other subject—namely, nuclear tests—as preparation for later Berlin negotiations.

If this is correct, Khrushchev wants to prove to his own people that equal agreements with the U.S. are feasible, as a preliminary to making concessions he will obviously have to offer in any fruitful talks about Berlin. But preparing the way for later Berlin discussions is obviously only one motive of the Khrushchev initiative on nuclear tests.

Chinese Tests

Another motive, for the U.S. as well as Khrushchev, is the fact that the time is daily drawing closer when Chinese Communist atomic tests have to be expected. In fact, the revival of the nuclear test talks by Khrushchev's quite unexpected letter to the President on Dec. 19 was an event of the utmost significance.

It is being treated as such by President Kennedy. A vital change has already been made in the former American policy, which included the provision that no test ban could be agreed to unless extension of the inspection system to Chinese territory offered safeguards against Soviet cheating on allied soil. A test ban without Communist China is now regarded as a reasonable calculated risk because of the bitter Sino-Soviet row.

In addition, the President has taken personal charge of the test ban negotiations. This means that the U.S. disarmament negotiator, William C. Foster, will be acting under the President's direct supervision. And it also means, no doubt, that part of the work of negotiation will be done in further correspondence between Kennedy and Khrushchev.

Whether agreement will result is anyone's guess. One bad sign is Khrushchev's choice of Semyon Tsarapkin as his chief negotiator. But a test ban is now about an even bet. With the second Berlin crisis at an end, and the Soviet break with China all but certain, and with a test ban agreement at even odds, a new era is clearly opening.

As Our Readers See It

Of Banks, UBC and SIU

Hal Banks, president of the Seafarers International Union of Canada, proposes an independent appeal procedure for members of that union.

I used to be a fireman on the old Princess Maquina and as such was a member of the SIU. I also worked in several banks as a teller and auditor and am now at UBC, which is a similar organization in bureaucratic structure to a union or a great chain of banks.

It is my experience and conviction that without an appeal procedure the individual within our large-scale administrative organizations is subjected to pressures the least of which may be encompassed in the type of wholesale thuggery and piracy we expect in some of our more flamboyant union leaders. It is also my experience and conviction that while the professor or banker is not slow to rail at the seaman for accepting such practices he is less than enthusiastic about admitting to them in his own organization.

'Now Is the Time ...'

No doubt there are many thoughts and opinions regarding General de Gaulle's blocking of Britain's entry into the European Economic Community. Perhaps Britain will yet live to thank him for his action.

Would it not be possible for the existing EFTA agreement (most of these countries come of stock closely akin to the Anglo-Saxons) to be expanded to include the Commonwealth on purely economic and co-operative grounds? This would not necessitate any loss of sovereignty, such as would have been necessary to Britain under the Treaty of Rome.

Now is the time for the Commonwealth to rally round the Mother Country—just as necessary, perhaps, as in 1914 and 1939. Britain may be feeling disappointed at the moment, though she might well have been misled in her desire to join the ECM and will now find it possible to do business within her own family and thus strengthen her ties and theirs.

A Commonwealth conference should be called immediately with the EFTA nations. Let them get together and form a Commonwealth—plus Common Market.

In calling for this and by giving such a lead Mr. Diefenbaker, who is the logical man to call for such a conference, might well rehabilitate his party and ensure himself a majority at the next general election. Such action, too, would give the world a lead and the Commonwealth a new lease of life.

'From' Is Correct

Many times, particularly recently, I have noticed an expression used in various articles in your paper.

The expression is that "so-and-so is different than so-and-so." I was always taught that, while so-and-so might be bigger THAN so-and-so, so-and-so was always different FROM so-and-so.

Is this not correct—or has Canadian grammar been readjusted to suit someone's convenience?

Sends Thanks

Please permit us, through the medium of your columns, to express to the many hundreds who assisted our cause, financially or otherwise, during the recent election campaign, the sincere thanks of our Committee.

Since the election we have received even more appreciation and encouragement to continue our work from many—both within Saanich and without—who had previously heard only of the possible advantages and not the disadvantages which would result from a centralization of local government in our area. To these also the Committee extends its thanks.

In the Old Days, Lower Taxes Attracted More Votes Than Desirable Water Tunnels

By ART STOTT

BACK in the late 1930s, when Andy McGavin was mayor, Victoria city council members talked occasionally about the Sooke water tunnel.

Nothing came of the talk. The tunnel then was estimated to cost a million dollars or more. The only time the council thought in millions was when it contemplated civic debt.

The Sooke water tunnel, a highly desirable development and future essential, remained a conversation piece while the city used profits from its water sales to lower the tax rate. Lower taxes attracted more votes than tunnels.

Now conservative estimates place the cost of the tunnel at $3.5 million. And the Greater Victoria Water Board could start building it, in stages, next year without borrowing money for the project.

Bulk delivery of water to municipalities, which retail it, is now a metropolitan undertaking—and an example of tidy, provident financing and administration. It has moved away from the parish pump.

When the city bought the Esquimalt Water Works for $1.4 million from private owners and later developed the Sooke Lake system at a cost of $2.8 million it built up a debt of about $4 million. That debt was tossed into the general pot of other financial obligations in the city's refunding scheme of the '30s.

Victoria had a water monopoly and problems on how to run it to meet the requirements of Greater Victoria and surrounding areas. The city called in Dr. E. A. Cleveland, the highly respected water expert in this part of the world, to tell it what to do.

In 1947, after his exhaustive surveys, he recommended the creation of a water district. Victoria accepted the recommendation, put a price of $4.5 millions, including interest payments, on its asset and formed the organization. The board is composed of the mayor, three aldermen and the reeves of the three adjoining municipalities, with the commissioner—the man responsible for the whole operation—holding a decisive vote and veto.

By the end of this year the water district will pay to the city the last $280,866 owing on the purchase. After that the board will be relieved of this drain on its income and can devote the sum to further development.

In addition to that, the board already has a kitty of $1.3 million, built up from accumulated logging profits and earnings that were sweetened when the wholesale water rate was raised by two cents per 1,000 gallons. From this latter source the board sets aside about $95,000 a year. Its logging operations yield a substantial return—$158,000 in 1962. With the annual $280,866 which has been going into purchase payments to the city and will not be paid after next December, these revenues provide about $333,900 a year on the 1962 basis.

Backed by the $1.3 million kitty, or trust fund, they make the Sooke tunnel a practical project on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The tunnel itself, a seven-foot diameter cut five-and-one-half miles through solid rock, would deliver Sooke Lake water to the site of the old B.C. Electric Goldstream powerhouse for transmission into the Greater Victoria area. It would carry all the water that can flow regularly from Sooke and Leech River and would be adequate to serve a population of 500,000 people living in the area from Sidney to Sooke on the lower island.

Without the tunnel the future demands will necessitate other costly mains which would not be as efficient.

The importance of avoiding debt by borrowing to build the tunnel rests on the fact that in about 10 years the water district will have to lay new mains in other parts of the system. They will be expensive and if the water board is already burdened by tunnel debt, financing may be difficult.

The dream of the 1930s is now a feasibility favored by realistic physical and economic considerations. It is practical largely because of the Greater Victoria Water District's open and sound house-keeping practices.

None of the returns from the sale of bulk water—and they represent only one-third of the cost to consumers—can be hidden. There is no chance of smuggling them into general revenue to cut tax rates. Yet the board is administered by, and composed of, men elected to represent the city and different municipalities. It is a metropolitan board—an example, and a good one, of the efficiency that can be brought to the Greater Victoria district when each of its parts joins to form a whole.

How Does Your Garden Grow?

It won't happen this weekend for climatic reasons and their effect on the soil, but in the not distant future the mistress of our manorial acres will launch a little campaign as subtle as a rolling-pin. She'll begin by complimenting me on the inherent strength of my muscles. She'll note that winter has left them a little softened and she will suggest that maybe they should be toned up a bit.

Then there will be a short pause, so that I'll be lulled into the belief that she is genuinely interested in my physical condition and that she has only my interests at heart—no ulterior motives at all.

Stott

Following the pause she'll very casually mention that it's about time she got out in the garden again. With a small sigh she'll regret that it has become a little difficult for her to dig as enthusiastically as she used to. Perhaps, she'll add with the win-someness of an executioner thumbing the edge of his axe to test its sharpness, I'd like to participate.

After that she'll abandon subterfuge and come right out with it: "Listen, you big lunk, you got that garden dug."

This is an ultimatum which time has blunted and which contains within itself the seeds of its own destruction.

Of course I'll start out manfully to dig the ruddy clay. And of course she, who is the gardener, will be out, snipping odds and ends here and there, pulling out weeds and doing those things a gardener is supposed to do and which I have taken great pains not to learn.

Simultaneously the young gentleman who lives next door, and who is also an ardent gardener, will come out to do the same in his yard. Eventually the lady and the neighbor will drift to the common fence and start one of those engrossing conversations which are as familiar as crab grass and horsetails to gardeners in our neighborhood.

I, the man with the hoe, or rather the shovel, will watch this, wait until the discussion claims their complete attention and slip down the lot to the boathouse where a new boat and outboard await. It is a very quiet outboard and I should be out at the help line before the gardeners above have got around to exchanging clippings and shoots from their respective borders. There will be plenty of time later for digging.

One of the hopes of man, as I see it, is the ability of gardeners to lose themselves in talk about gardens—to become so oblivious to all else around them that they don't notice casual labor slipping away.

This is a good thing, and not only for me. The Victoria Horticultural Society is going to recognize it in a new Spring Garden Festival policy this year. In addition to singling out particularly fine grounds for scheduled tours on festival days, May 2, 3 and 4, the organizers are arranging to select a number of small gardens whose owners are willing to admit a visitor or two, show the visitor what's growing and shoot the breeze on plants, name-flower names and offer hints and suggestions.

The scheme can't miss. There is a free masonry of horticulture to which I have never been admitted but which flourishes with the vigor of morning-glory on our side fence.

I like the idea because the society will be fostering a community interest in the spring festival, drawing comfortable friends from the lower mainland, the island and particularly Greater Victoria. If garden lovers come from distant points, as they have done in other years, so much the better.

But the psychology of the plan has a particular appeal for me. It is the kind of thinking I'd like to see in most of our tourist work. We'd concentrate on doing something that is enjoyable to us as people living here and hope that what we like is sufficiently attractive to draw other folk to enjoy it with us.

There wouldn't be any gimmicks or gimmickery, just pretty genuine pleasure for us and for them. And it should help more people who want to make their lots appealing learn how to do it.

This is saying it with flowers for the neighbors—which should make good neighborhood, good city and good community.

GRAIN SALES TO RED CHINA CONTINUE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Federal Trade Minister George Hees said Thursday he sees no indication of Canada cutting grain sales to Communist China.

"Of course," he said in an interview, "it is a government decision and is changeable from time to time."

Asked if he felt that food was not a strategic material, Mr. Hees replied: "Do you believe you should starve people because you disagree with their ideology?"

Medicare, Columbia Highlighted

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Liberal party, says Trade Minister Hees has "no more respect for the truth than a tomato has for a marriage licence."

He told delegates to the annual convention of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative party Thursday night the Liberals were "guilty of the worst sin in public life—putting the fortunes of the party before the fortunes of the people."

During the last federal election campaign, he said, the Liberals tried to destroy confidence in the country. But Canada's gross national product had increased eight per cent since that time. Jobs had increased by 168,000 and unemployment decreased by 78,000.

President Kennedy said Canada achieved the best price stability in the Western world with a cost-of-living increase of only 1.0 per cent compared to 1.11 per cent in the U.S.

There isn't a single Conservative in the legislature now. The Social Credit party, lead by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, has 31 of the 52 seats. There are 16 NDP-CCF members and five Liberals.

The Conservative's plank is being referred to among delegates as the "Fulton plan." Mr. Fulton, a veteran politician at 46, is known to have conferred with the party's policy committee, giving it a broad outline of what he would like to see done.

Delegates were to vote on the platform today. The program promises to make available to everyone in the province, regardless of physical condition or ability to pay, "voluntary prepaid medical coverage through existing medical agencies."

It is designed to lift the provincial party out of the political doldrums. The Progressive Conservatives have not formed a government in British Columbia since 1933.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Cliff Richard Topples Elvis

LONDON—A couple of weeks ago the Elvis Presley number "Return To Sender" was released here and at once jumped to the top of the hit parade. That's the usual thing in this country with each new Elvis record.

Reyburn

At the same time as "Return To Sender" a new number by British singer Cliff Richard, "Bachelor Boy," came in to the record shops. And "Bachelor Boy" has now ousted "Return To Sender" from No. 1 position on the hit parade.

This is not usual. In fact it's the first time Elvis has been knocked off the top of the Top Ten.

Which just goes to prove that Cliff Richard is now the biggest thing in this field in Britain. The 22-year-old Cockney kid whose family was so poor that Dad made do-it-yourself furniture out of packing cases has not only outdistanced all the other local pop singers—he can lick Elvis in a straight fight.

And with his acting talent and pleasant personality he is being tipped to wind up eventually as one of the top names in show business in general, not merely with the teen-age record buying public.

Already the Motion Picture Herald has voted him Britain's most popular film star of 1962—ahead of such people as the aforementioned Elvis, Peter Sellers, John Wayne and Frank Sinatra.

What won him that 1962 accolade was his movie The Young Ones, which I think went under a different name in your part of the world.

He has now followed it up with his second film musical, Summer Holiday, just released.

I took daughter Robin and a girl friend along to the press screening and as an indication of the Cliff Richard pulling power the big Warner cinema on Leicester Square was jam-packed.

Toone Happy To Try Again At Parley

The secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council hopes the government's proposed conference on industrial relations problems will be more successful than the last two.

Ald. A. W. Toone welcomes the Throne Speech announcement that the conference will be organized.

But he cautioned the last two such meetings "turned out badly so far as labor is concerned."

Mr. Toone welcomed the announcement all the same. He said the meeting might produce results since "there is a different atmosphere now."

For more post-war babies who be looking for wolverine the next five or six years.

Canadians are beginning to understand, he said, that this country can no longer build its economy on a basis of exporting only raw materials. There must be a balance between raw material production, primary industry and secondary industry.

He pointed out that while manufacturing in Canada employs one out of four workers, the Canadians imported six times as many finished goods as Americans—about $269 per capita against $39.

Mr. Pollock is no mere theoretician when it comes to guiding exports. His own firm, Dominion Electrochemical Industries Ltd., has successfully cracked the U.S. market with its bid-line and is also successfully selling in Britain, New Zealand and other countries.

For the first time last year, Mr. Pollock said, his company came close to balancing exports of manufactured goods Stronger bids for Treasury bills Thursday brought the interest rate on the 91-day bills down to 3 per cent.

Previous low since the crisis last June was 2½ per cent on Nov. 29, when the rate—an indication of the conditions in the short money market—has been actively stable, twice edged to 3.94 per cent.

the U.S. with imports of components. This year he expects the dollar value of exports will be ahead of imports.

Immediate goal of the CMA now, the president declared, was to get lower taxes in Canada as a stimulus to increased industrial production.

While the CMA favored a balanced budget, he said, it was more desirable to have a deficit through lower taxes, since in the long run such a policy would lead to greatly increased revenues and thus a balanced budget.

CAMERAMEN BANNED FROM WINDSOR PARK

Queen Wants Her Privacy

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has issued a stern edict banning anyone from taking her photograph while she's relaxing in Windsor Great Park.

"The Queen has made it clear," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman, "that she and her family detest being photographed in the park. How would you like it if a photographer kept popping up in your private garden?"

The palace warning followed the appearance in court Wednesday of a freelance photographer Raymond Bellisario, charged with breaking the royal rule by snapping the Queen as she rode by on a horse with Princess Anne and a groom.

Bellisario was given a conditional discharge, which means if he stays out of trouble for the next 12 months the court will forget about it.

FILM FETE APPROVED FOR PARK

City council Thursday gave approval for an international film festival this summer in Beacon Hill Park.

The festival will be run along lines of the centennial festival which last summer attracted 10,500 to the Cameron Shell in the park.

To run from July 1 to Aug. 14, the festival will include documentaries from all over the world.

Organized by the adult education department of the Greater Victoria School Board, and co-sponsored by the National Film Board of Canada, the series of film showings will be directed by Paschal O'Toole.

Switch-Hitter To Reveal How It's Done

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi is going to tell Victoria Jaycees what it is like to be a minister of the Crown and at the same time a minister of the church.

"My Dual Ministries" will be the title of his Jan. 30 speech at a dinner meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Net Loft.

The last time the subject of his dual ministries came up it resulted in a two-day debate in the legislature. At that time he was asked if donations made for the building of his new church were made "because you are a minister of the Crown or of the church?"

Mr. Gagliardi is a minister of Calvary Tabernacle in Kamloops as well as being highways minister.

Credit Union Dividend 4 Per Cent

A dividend of 4 per cent on savings and 15 per cent on loans was declared by the annual meeting of Victoria Graphic Arts Credit Union this week.

President James R. Begg reported 296 savings shares to a value of $81,575 and 30 endowment policies totalling $51,000, with total assets of $153,017.

Directors recommended setting aside for the first time an undivided surplus which may be used in future to maintain share and patronage dividends in the event that profits decrease.

N.W.T. COUNCIL IN BOLD MOVE

Free Education Plan Set

OTTAWA (CP)—A nine-day session by the nine-member Northwest Territories council ended Thursday with the announcement of the intended birth of a new territory and practically free university education for everyone in the territories.

Nunassiat is the new name for the eastern section of the territories—to be divorced from the Mackenzie district in the west—probably by next year. This depends on the necessary legislation getting through the Commons.

But the educational assistance program was clearly the biggest item to come from the council which earlier expressed its determination to see that every ambitious student had a chance in university.

Council agreed to make outright grants, covering the cost of university tuition and transportation, to all students wanting to travel in addition to those who will be made available to cover the cost of board and lodging.

If the graduates return to the territories, the grants will be repaid.

Atheist Challenges Archbishop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vincent Hallinan, self-described "roaring atheist," who was raised and educated as a Roman Catholic, carried his fight with the Catholic Church into Superior Court Thursday.

The lawyer, an ex-convict and one-time Progressive Party candidate for President of the United States, sought a court order to compel Archbishop John McGucken of the San Francisco archdiocese to answer 38 questions including the precise location of heaven, hell and purgatory.

Superior Court Judge Byron Arnold gave Hallinan five days to file a brief supporting his argument and the lawyer for the archbishop another 10 days in which to reply.

Hallinan's challenge to the church is based on his efforts to break the will of David Sipple, secretary-consul of the San Francisco county grand jury who left his $175,966 estate to 35 Catholic institutions. Sipple died in 1961 at the age of 81.

Hallinan charged that the church induced Sipple "to prepare his way to heaven" by making gifts to the church. He charged that those who taught Sipple that this was his "moral obligation . . . are guilty of fraud."

Fines of $20 For Minors With Liquor

Three minors were fined $20 each in Saanich police court Thursday for possession of liquor.

They all pleaded guilty.

Terrence Scott, 20, of 4581 Pipeline, was found with three bottles of beer in his car in Mount Douglas Park the night of Jan. 13.

A bottle of beer fell out of a car driven by Robert Lane, 19, of 2286 Amelia, Sidney, when a police officer opened the car door at the White Spot parking lot, Douglas Street, Jan. 12. More beer was found in the car.

Gary Hemeon, 19, of 344 John, was stopped in a car with a 16-year-old on the West Saanich Road Dec. 29. He had two bottles of beer in his shirt and one in his trousers pocket. More beer was found under the seat of the car.

THEY WANT TO BE SHARP SATURDAY NIGHT

Preparing for big night of season, youngsters with Esquimalt Minor Hockey Association cluster around goal to practice scoring tips passed on by coach Jack White. Trying to get puck behind goalie Doug Flynn are Bruce Perry, James Storry, Danny Peck, Allan Stocks and Chris Donnison. Esquimalt lads stage "Minor Hockey Week" program Saturday at Sports Centre.

Minor Hockey Festival Staged for Adults, Too

They call it "Minor Hockey Week" but perhaps that's a misnomer.

The real purpose of the week, sponsored by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, is to make parents aware of what Canadian youngsters —their boys—are doing when they pick up skates and head for arenas.

There is good reason for the hockey-week slogan: "Don't send—take your boy to the arena."

During the season, many parents appear to show little interest in how their boys are progressing and how they are being supervised. The annual hockey festival is designed to lure mothers and fathers to hockey rinks—to see how their sons are doing, to appreciate the work of coaches and officials that makes minor hockey possible, and, perhaps most important, to encourage the boys.

125,000 IN CANADA

How many boys are there in minor hockey? What do they do in their skating time?

This year more than 125,000 youngsters—pups, peewees, midgets, bantams and juveniles—are playing organized hockey on rinks from Esquimalt to Newfoundland. Thousands more are playing on teams that are not affiliated.

They often get up at unearthly hours for a chance to use the ice and learn the fundamentals of Canada's national game from coaches whose only reward is the satisfaction of doing a job well.

Minor Hockey Week, which officially starts Saturday, does more than stress the sacrifices, development and sportsmanship that are part and parcel of minor hockey.

FUND-RAISERS

It also serves as a means to raise much-needed funds.

This winter the Esquimalt Minor Hockey Association has ice rental costs of $3,700. Some expenses are covered by team sponsors, but there is always a shortage of funds.

Esquimalt will mark Minor Hockey Week Saturday. All 26 teams, which take in boys from seven to 18 years, will be in action during a program running from 6 p.m. until after 10.

Approximately 400 boys are registered with the Esquimalt Association and all will benefit from a full house. And out of it some lucky ticket-holder will go home with a $100 bond, one of three door prizes offered.

Members of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association have the same enthusiasm and the same problems. However, they will have to wait until Feb. 9 to stage their annual festival because Memorial Arena is occupied next week by an automobile show.

NINE PER CENT

Between them, the two Victoria-area groups have 900 boys or nine per cent of the B.C. total—registered. That points up the enthusiasm of the short-pants brigade to emulate the feats of Bellevue and Mahovitch and Hull. Perhaps some day some local lads will succeed them in the National Hockey League temple.

And along the way they could use at least one night's encouragement and support. Here is the Esquimalt schedule:

6:00 p.m.—Peewee Pups: South, Jels vs. Panthers; North, Corvettes vs. Bombers.
6:30 p.m.—Peewee: Naden Chiefs vs. Cape Breton.
6:45 p.m.—Peewee Pups: South, Totems vs. Serpents; North, Falcons vs. Hawks.
7:00 p.m.—Peewee: Tudor House vs. Vancouver 4.
7:30 p.m.—Peewee Pups: South, Darts vs. Rockets; North, Redskins vs. Wildcats.
7:45 p.m.—Peewee: Stockers vs. Assassins.
8:00 p.m.—Bantams: Patricia vs. Yarrus.
8:30 p.m.—Midgets and juveniles: Orlans vs. Assassins.
9:30 p.m.—Midgets and juveniles: Scouts vs. Saguenay.

SATISFIED FLINGER

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves collected their 17th signed contract for the 1963 season when left-handed pitcher Dan Schneider agreed to terms.

Touring Tennis Pros May Appear at Arena

Australia's Rod Laver and other touring professional tennis stars may display their talents here in May.

Memorial Arena manager Jack Morgan said this morning that he is considering a proposal to bring the net troupe to the Arena for a one-night competition.

The pros are due to make their first visit to Vancouver in two years, playing at Kerrisdale Arena on May 25.

In addition to Laver, who recently turned professional after completing a "grand slam" in amateur ranks, the pros include Ken Rosewall, Australia; Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz, U.S.; Luis Ayala, Chile, and Andres Gimeno, Spain.

CHIEFS THUMPED

On Their Good Nights, Harlems Are Terrific

They slipped for a few games, but don't kid yourself—North Vancouver Harlems are virtually untouchable on their good nights.

Harlems had a very good night Thursday, walloping Victoria Haida Chiefs 76-49 at North Vancouver. The win gave Harlems 20 points and the Inter-city Basketball League title.

New Westminster Bakers, needing a win to keep pace with Harlems, were 67-66 losers to last-place Puritans at Vancouver. Hunter Candlish jammed in a basket as the buzzer sounded to spike the Bakers.

Chiefs offered a sour shooting display against Harlems. The Victorians hit on only 20 of 105 shots from the floor.

They get a chance to redeem themselves when they host Harlems in the league finale at Central Junior High Saturday at 8:30.

Apart from salvaging prestige, Saturday's game has little meaning for either club. Harlems can't be caught. They get a bye, wait until Bakers and Haidas decide which team will prevail in a best-of-five semifinal playoff.

Only Norris Martin (16 points) and Darrell Lorimer (12) had their shooting arms working for Victoria Thursday.

Chiefs suffered untold grief at the hands of Billy Joe Price, Harlems' six-nine centre. He whipped in 18 points in the first half, added four in the second as Harlems coasted in.

Clay's Big Mouth Rings Bell Again

Plunks Powell In the Third As Predicted

PITTSBURGH (AP)—"I'm the greatest" chirped irrepressible Cassius Clay after easily disposing of Charley Powell Thursday night in the round he called. Then he offered to fight two boxers in one night.

Clay, 21, the sport's prognosticating poet, referred to his next heavyweight fight with Doug Jones and a possible rematch after that with Billy Daniels.

He had just finished punching bag with Powell's head by knocking him out at two minutes, four seconds of the third round. The victory was his 17th straight without a loss and his 14th by knockout.

Clay weighed 205, Powell 214. "Jones must fall in six," Cassius predicted about his March 13 fight in New York. "Daniels must fall in two. I'd like to fight Daniels and Jones in one night and get it over with."

Clay's ambition is to become the youngest heavyweight champion in boxing history by beating Sonny Liston by next November.

READY FOR SONNY?

"I'm ready for Liston tomorrow," he said. My managers and Liston are the only things keeping me from him."

One member of Clay's board of directors, William Cutchins, said Clay is "a year or so" away from a title fight.

The Louisville Lip, his own label, unabashedly discussed the victory.

"I'm making history calling all those rounds," he boasted. "No other fighter does that. I'm the prophet of the fight game."

He told of the circumstances that led to his 13th correct prediction witnessed by 11,238 who paid $55.72.

SAYS POWELL ROUGH

"That big monkey was rough," he said of Powell, 28, a former pro football player from Los Angeles.

"They couldn't call him a pushover. He was hitting and moving fast. He was hoping he'd tag me with one good punch and end it."

"He hurt me to the body in the second round."

"He kept saying, 'C'mon, sissy, you're not hitting hard enough. C'mon, big mouth, you've been talking. Now let's do it. This is the third.'"

"I didn't pay any attention. I said, 'Just be cool. It's coming.'"

"You see how when the third round came, he got in that corner. He looked wary. He was cautious. I shook him with a jab and three left hooks. I was working on seven, but he didn't stand up long enough."

In contrast to Powell, who suffered a deep gash above his left eye, Clay was unmarked and free of sweat.

"I'm so pretty," Clay concluded. "Let me get dressed. I have some pretty girls waiting for me outside."

Montana Grouse Wired for Sound

The transmitters, weighing less than two ounces, will indicate the type of terrain and vegetation preferred by the game birds.

CASSIUS CLAY

YES, THERE IS!

Faster Lip Than Cass?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cassius Clay, fastest talker in boxing history, has conceded that a bigger mouth than his has been discovered.

Clay made the admission Thursday after a day of confusion over his oratorical plans during a 10-round heavyweight bout with Charley Powell in Pittsburgh.

It began with a story quoting Archie Litman, promoter of the fight, as saying Clay had agreed to take an arena microphone and discuss the progress of the bout after each round.

Awakened by the Miami News in his Pittsburgh hotel room, Clay's trainer, Angelo Dundee, disclaimed any knowledge of the story.

"BRAINSTORM"

"First I heard about it," Dundee said. "Cassius has been coming some guy."

Litman, also professed ignorance of the story. But later, he confessed:

"My brother handles the fight publicity and last night he got this—brainstorm that this would be a great gimmick. He released the story but didn't tell me about it. So now, I'll have to ask the boxing commission's approval."

"OVER MY BODY!"

Commissioner Paul Sullivan said: "They'll do it over my dead body."

By this time, Cassius himself was out of bed and talking.

"Why, they've gone crazy, man," he said. "I've predicted I'll win in the third. I've sold out the house. What more do they want? I've got to rest between rounds. Besides, I have to give Angelo a chance to talk sometimes and between rounds is the only chance he has."

P.S.—Cassius won in the third.

Neil Harvey Makes 154 for Australia

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters)—Neil Harvey today made 154 for Australia against the touring Marylebone Cricket Club here when the fourth cricket test began here.

Harvey, who shared a fourth wicket stand of 194 in 171 minutes with Norman O'Neill, helped Australia reach 322 for 5 by the close.

Harvey batted just under 5½ hours for his runs, his strokes including one five and 18 fours, and became the fourth man in cricket history to pass 6,000 runs in tests when he had scored 61. The others were Don Bradman of Australia and Wally Hammond and Len Hutton of England.

England captured Australia's first two wickets with only 15 on the board, but fielding lapses cost the English dearly once Harvey came in.

He was missed off consecutive balls at 11 and again at 26. Outside these chances Harvey played some superlative strokes.

Britain Booth (34) helped redeem Australia's poor start by adding 85 for the third wicket with Harvey before O'Neill, who batted nearly three hours and hit 13 fours in his 100, completed Australia's recovery.

Earlier, Brian Statham had had Bobby Simpson caught behind for a duck to claim his 236th test wicket in his career and equal Alec Bedser's world record.

Wall, Cupit Click On Bumpy Greens

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran Art Wall and 24-year-old Jacky Cupit conquered bumpy greens Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $50,000 San Francisco International Open golf tournament. They had scores of 67, four under par.

They finished just a stroke ahead of five golfers—Charlie Sifford, Dick Mayer, Bobby Nichols, Phil Rodgers and rookie Terry Dill over the Harding Park municipal course.

Wall, 39-year-old former Masters champion, fired three birdies and an eagle while going over par just once.

FOUR BIRDIES

Cupit collected four birdies and didn't go over regulation figures.

At the ninth, which was Wall's finishing hole as he played the last nine holes first under the PGA format, the Pennsylvanian hit an approach shot two feet from the cup on the 510-yard hole for a tap-in eagle.

Wall confirmed reports from most of the pros that the greens were bumpy.

A big group was bracketed at 69 including George Knudson of Toronto and Winnipeg, runner-up to Gene Littler in the 1961 San Francisco event, and Jack Bisseger of Val Morin, Que.

Also at 69 were Billy Casper, winner of the Bing Crosby tournament Sunday, Gardner Dickenson Jr., Miller Barber, Buster Cupit, Jacky's older brother, Wes Ellis Jr. and Bud Holscher.

Among players bracketed at 71 were Al Balding and Will Homenuik, both of Toronto.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver had a 72, Al Johnston of Montreal a 75 and Alvie Thompson of Toronto a 76.

Arnold Palmer carded only a 73, commenting "...this is one of the toughest courses I've seen anywhere but it isn't the best. I wasn't putting well. The greens were a little bumpy but everybody plays the same greens."

Little Navy Netminder Plans to Keep Trophy

Pat Cain's name was the first to be engraved on the Humber Trophy, and the little Navy goaltender seems determined to keep it there.

Last season's leading goalkeeper in the Esquimalt and District Hockey League, Cain is only a slender margin away from Esquimalt's Ron Griffiths.

Heading into tonight's doubleheader at the Sports Centre, Griffiths has a 2.18 goal-against average, while Cain is a hot second with a 2.22 mark.

The scoring race also seems to be heading for a down-to-the-wire finish. With five games remaining on the regular schedule, Navy's Ken Maxwell leads with 22 points, one more than Ben Price, of Esquimalt Chiefs. Lou Darche, Navy, is third with 19 and Chiefs' Sandy George has 18.

The league's top teams—Navy and Chiefs—face the underdogs tonight and it's an ideal situation for upsets. Chiefs play Victoria

By The Canadian Press
Toronto Maple Leafs' Frank Mahovlich ended his famine with a feast in Boston Thursday night, firing two goals and adding two assists in the Leafs' 6-3 win. Mahovlich's linemate veteran centre Red Kelly, sparked the Leafs with a goal and four assists.

Mahovlich had gone nine games without scoring a goal going into the game. But his torrid goal-game streak in December was enough to maintain the National Hockey League lead in goals. He now has 25.

In Thursday night's other game, Dickie Moore scored early in the last period after a dazzling series of fakes by linemate Henri Richard to give Montreal Canadiens a 1-1 tie with Detroit Red Wings.

Moore, considered just about through at the start of the season because of two dinky knees, has made an amazing comeback. He has averaged a point a game in Canadiens' last 15 games and has been a big factor in their drive upward from fourth place.

FRANK IN FRONT

Mahovlich moved back into the league lead in the points race with his output, a position he hasn't occupied alone since late December.

The Big M, a 200-pound native of Timmins, Ont., now has 40 points, one more than Boston veteran Johnny Bucyk, who gathered two assists.

Point-scoring centre Dave Keon scored twice for Leafs and Bob Nevin, who plays on a line with Kelly and Mahovlich, scored the other Toronto goal.

It was the 18th and 19th goals of the season for Keon, who appears certain to extend his performance by scoring 20 goals in each of his first three NHL seasons.

Boston's goals were counted by spare forward Wayne Hicks, Murray Oliver and defenceman Eddie Westfall.

EX-HAB CLICKS

In Detroit, right winger Andre Pronovost scored Detroit's only goal early in the first period. Pronovost played for Canadians two seasons ago.

Moore's goal also gave him third place in goals among modern-day left wingers. Moore has 242 goals, one more than Harvey (Busher) Jackson, a former Toronto great. He trails only Ted Lindsay, former Detroit star, who had 335, and Aurel Joliat, old-time Montreal Canadian, who had 270.

United Defence Neil's Problem

The name of Brian Philley, long respected in B.C. soccer circles, is scheduled to be inserted into a starting lineup for the first time this season, but Saturday's big match could be made to order for Neil McEachnie.

Philley has been named to start at inside left for Canadians when the Pacific Coast League leaders play second-place Victoria United at Royal Athletic Park.

Philley was signed this week after the brilliant Normie McLeod suffered a broken right leg. McLeod was the league's top goal-scorer with 13 in 10 games.

"We're still bringing McLeod along," Canadians' manager Ken Howarth said Thursday. "...Just to scare (Wally) Milligan."

This was in reference to the fact that McLeod has scored five of the six Canadian goals against United this season.

"You can also inform Milligan (United's manager), that we're not going to collapse just because McLeod won't be able to play," Howarth added.

While McLeod has had his moments, the Victoria defence and goalkeeper Barry Sadler have been somewhat of an enigma to McEachnie. McEachnie, the league's leading scorer last year and one of the most dangerous centre forwards around, hasn't been able to push a ball past Sadler in two seasons of play.

With McLeod out, the lead falls on McEachnie's shoulders. That could mean trouble.

GOLF SCHOOL

By SAM SNEAD

To remedy unnecessary head movement throughout your swing, cock your head slightly to the right when addressing the ball. With this slight head cocking, you should be looking at the ball primarily with your left eye when you address the ball.

This would help you keep your head position steady throughout the swing. When you turn your shoulders and hips to the right in the backswing, you won't be turning or moving your head, as you can see in the illustration today.

I've found this helps many golfers, especially heavy-set people. If you have a lighter, more athletic build, keep your head looking straight down as you address the ball. But make sure you keep it steady throughout your swing, too.

DOPE TESTS NEGATIVE IN BIG YEAR

There may have been more dopes on B.C.'s race tracks last year, but there wasn't a single dope in a race in a record year for betting.

Not one horse was doped out of the 996 tested on B.C. tracks, according to the annual report of the B.C. Racing Commission tabled in the legislature Thursday.

It shows bettors wagered $13,500,000, an increase of $1,400,000 over 1961.

The report noted that 1962 is only the second season in the past 14 years that no doped horses have been discovered.

"This is an excellent record and few, if any, race tracks in North America can make a similar claim," the report says.

Oakalla prison was so crowded in the year ending last March that officials had to continue using a building that had been condemned as far back as 1912. It was reported in the legislature Thursday.

The annual report of S. Rockborough Smith, director of corrections, for the year ending in March, said of the building called Annex A:

"We can no longer justify this old wooden building with its lack of even the most elementary facilities for housing prisoners."

He said up to 200 older prisoners were housed in the building's dormitories and accommodation has had to be increased.

The prison as a whole, which houses 50 per cent or more of the jail population of the province, was so overcrowded that two men had to be put in 166 cells designed for one man.

City, Oak Bay Trail On Highway Grants

Victoria and Oak Bay were poor relations when it came to highway handouts from the provincial government last year.

Wrong-Way Trend Hits Adoptions

Finding people to adopt children is becoming a real and serious problem in B.C., according to the latest social welfare report of the provincial government.

More people offered homes for adoption in 1957 than last year.

As a result 35 fewer children were placed for adoption in the year ending last March 31.

The waiting list of Indian and part-Indian children totals 165.

These figures were disclosed by the government's child welfare superintendent Mary King in a report presented to the legislature Thursday.

She said there are five reasons for the lack of "parents": People live in smaller homes; They are moving into apartments; Times are harder; Science has overcome problems of natural childbirth; FEWER RIGHT AGE

There are fewer British Columbians in the right age group to adopt children.

"The adoption program in this province is reaching the point where there are not enough adoption homes to meet the placement needs of normal, healthy infants," Miss King said.

The result, she said, is that more and more children must be placed in foster homes while they wait for "real" parents.

In the 1957-58 year 142 more homes were offered for adoptions than last year.

CONTINENT WIDE

Miss King said the shortage is apparently part of a continent-wide trend.

The trend will continue until there are more people of parent-age; that will be when the effects of the heavy birth-rate of the 1940s are felt.

While placing Roman Catholic children was always a problem, it has now also become difficult to find Protestant homes as well, Miss King said.

However, the Roman Catholic problem "remains acute."

In the 1961-62 year the government placed 533 children, 460 of whom were Protestants, 67 Roman Catholic and three Hebrew and three Buddhist. The three children's aid societies of Vancouver and Victoria placed another 331 children.

38 HOMES

At March 31 there were only 38 known homes available.

Miss King said rapidly increasing costs of child welfare are cause for concern.

In the last year there was an 8.4 per cent increase in the number of youngsters under government care, a total of 4,440. They cost the taxpayers $3,800,000.

Black Nudges Premier In Spending

Triple Minister Wesley Black is the new champ of B.C. government expense accounts.

Mr. Black, minister of social welfare, municipal affairs and provincial secretary, beat last year's most expensive man, Premier Bennett, for the first time, according to public accounts filed in the House Thursday.

Mr. Black's travels cost a total of $6,411 for the fiscal year which ended last March 31.

The premier spent $6,004. Last year, when he was the champion, Mr. Bennett had it up to $8,847.

Number three spender was Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, with $5,859.

Liquor Woes Hit 21,431

A total of 21,431 British Columbians got into trouble with the law for drunkenness in the year ending last March.

A report filed in the legislature showed that most of them, 13,296, were arrested in Vancouver.

But 1,159 were in Prince George, 942 in Kamloops and 724 in Victoria.

Of the grand total, 8,565 went to jail, 5,201 were fined and 5,270 received suspended sentences.

THRONE SPEECH CALLED FARCE

Gov't Shows 'Haughty Disdain'—Strachan

Social Credit government has "a haughty disdain" for the real problems of the people of British Columbia, government introduced a "First Narrows Bridge Gift Act" but it had been contingent on the municipalities building another span. He said he was afraid lest the new legislation was an attempt to unburden responsibility on to the municipalities.

He said he was disappointed the speech made no mention of promises to increase the homeowner grant to $100, nor of a new system of grants to municipalities.

He conceded the speech mentioned increased education grants, but wondered if that was due only to the annual inflation.

Mr. Strachan said he remembered several years ago the government introduced a "First Narrows Bridge Gift Act" but it had been contingent on the municipalities building another span. He said he was afraid lest the new legislation was an attempt to unburden responsibility on to the municipalities.

He also predicted it would promote a rough session.

"It shows a complacency on the part of the government that has me upset."

Both he and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault had the same immediate reaction: "An empty speech."

Mr. Perrault said it was "a recitation of emptiness by a government which is obviously tired, weary and bankrupt of ideas."

"The people of B.C. can only be bitterly disappointed with this catalogue of minutiae. The big issues cry out for attention. Today they were ignored."

'REAL DANGER'

One such issue he signalled out was Columbia River power.

"The words of the throne speech indicate this project is now in real danger because of government procrastination, delay and political posturing."

Mr. Strachan said he suspected a "gimmick" on-bridge tolls.

He said the speech promised no more tolls on First and Second Narrows, but didn't mention Oak St. Bridge nor the Deas Island Tunnel.

"We will have to wait and see if it is acceptable or merely another gimmick."

Mr. Strachan said he remembered several years ago the government introduced a "First Narrows Bridge Gift Act" but it had been contingent on the municipalities building another span. He said he was afraid lest the new legislation was an attempt to unburden responsibility on to the municipalities.

He also predicted it would promote a rough session.

"It shows a complacency on the part of the government that has me upset."

Both he and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault had the same immediate reaction: "An empty speech."

Mr. Perrault said it was "a recitation of emptiness by a government which is obviously tired, weary and bankrupt of ideas."

"The people of B.C. can only be bitterly disappointed with this catalogue of minutiae. The big issues cry out for attention. Today they were ignored."

crease in student enrolments. He was a little sceptical, too, of the promised raise for civil servants.

"We'll have to wait for the budget (Feb. 8) to see if it meets the needs of the civil servants."

He pointed out the government still refused to grant bargaining rights to its employees.

Commenting on the general review of government accomplishments in the wordy speech, Mr. Strachan said: "All these high-sounding words don't mean one quarter of what they say."

"I kept waiting for something worthwhile. It seems they're going to dawdle along with things as they are. I don't think this adds to the possibility of it being a friendly session. I am quite upset."

Mr. Strachan said if the government planned to introduce a whole lot of surprise legislation later in the session it was not being absolutely honest with the people.

PHILIPS

takes the time to build the best

Today marks a new era in stereo high fidelity performance

Now a record changer from Philips so good it's Guaranteed for a Lifetime

If you are considering the purchase of a Stereo High Fidelity set, your first consideration should be a reliable record changer.

Everything starts with your record changer. This is true even of the most expensive Stereo High Fidelity unit. If the changer is faulty, the sound you hear is distorted—right from the beginning.

What few people realize is that a changer can go wrong in many subtle ways—even after weeks or months of trouble free service. Why? Because it's extremely complex.

The average record changer contains over 125 parts. To start, stop, play and reject recordings, these parts must work together perfectly. If one part breaks down it ruins the performance of your Stereo High Fidelity unit.

Most record changers have only a limited guarantee. Until now. Today, Philips announces a Lifetime Guarantee on its amazing AG 1015 record changer. It's the first and only guarantee of its kind in Canada.

This guarantee means that you can expect perfect performance from your Philips changer for as long as you own your Stereo High Fidelity unit! If it fails to satisfy you at any time, you simply return it to us and we will either repair or replace it under the terms of the guarantee.

How can we dare to make such an offer?

Because we know how good this record changer is. We designed and built it ourselves. In fact, every part that goes into a Philips Stereo record changer is developed or made by Philips. And it is assembled with the precision and care that marks the manufacture of all Philips products. It is then subjected to rigorous life and dependability tests which would shake apart less reliable changers. Only then do we stamp it with our exclusive Lifetime Guarantee!

Illustrated below are the 1963 Philips Stereo High Fidelity units which contain the amazing AG 1015 changer. If you already own one of these 1963 models you have the benefit of the Lifetime Guarantee—dating back to the day you bought your unit. Consult your dealer. If you are considering the purchase of a new unit, see your franchised Philips dealer soon. We picked him for his courtesy, his integrity, his ability and his willingness to provide responsible follow through service. Ask him to demonstrate the remarkable Philips AG 1015 changer and explain the Lifetime Guarantee to you!

The pleasure of true Stereo High Fidelity can now be yours—for a lifetime!

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Carol Channing and George Burns may have simmered down by now—but they were up in the clouds for days—they had an intimate dinner with President Kennedy and Jackie in the little family dining room on the second floor of the White House to which very few get invited.

"It was very funny," Carol will tell you breathlessly. "My husband"—Charles Lowe—"and I were having dinner at 6:30 Saturday night at our hotel with a Washington friend when we got the invitation by phone.

"We were asked to come at a quarter of 8. Our Washington friend said, 'This is a command! Forget this dinner. Drop everything and go!'

"I had to press my own dress... the valet shop was closed. When George Burns heard about it, he said 'Shall we go?' He was scared, too. I haven't been so scared since my first day of school!

"There was just the two of them... the president was sitting in his rocking chair when we came in..."

"There was steak with 'delicious Bernaise sauce' and mashed potatoes—"and we dipped our fingers in the finger bowls"—and the Kennedys were talking to them about Show Business. And about the big fund-raising show they'd done the night before, produced by Richard Adler, the composer-producer.

"Jackie's eyes just danced when we talked about Show Business!" Carol says. "She said to George, 'Now I'm going to be Mr. Adler would you do for us the Red Rose Rag?'"

Burns would only be too glad and did, assisted by Carol's conductor, Robert Hunter, the only other person in the dinner group. Kirk Douglas, who had been one of the m.c.'s of the previous night's show, and Mrs. Douglas, came in later.

"At 11 o'clock," Carol says, "the dear President said, 'It's just been wonderful fun. But I've got to go to bed. Everybody out!' He pushed me onto the elevator..."

Carol and her husband flew back to NY after the dinner but Carol hardly needed a plane. Carol had carried with her an evening bag—and a very large one which she loads with rhinestones which she throws into audiences when she does her "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend" number.

"Jackie said it was chic?" Carol exclaimed. "I immediately ordered five more of those bags, and I'm going to send Jackie one," Carol added, needlessly, "I'm just starry-eyed."

Hey, there, Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson! Comedian Bernie Allen tells about a nervous fighter whose manager tried to buoy up his spirits with a pep talk. Said his manager: 'Don't be scared of the bum. Remember, if he was any good, he wouldn't be fighting you.'

Wanted: Recipe for bean soup! Ruth Zollner, Toledo, writes: "We had a recipe, which you once printed, clipped to our kitchen calendar for many years, but some time during the move from the old home place, the recipe was lost. Boy, would I like to have it again!" (O.K., while I'm looking it up, anybody else got a great one?).

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: An Irish colleen was dancing with the local flatterer who whispered, "I could dance like this forever." She sweetly replied, "Oh, don't be so possessive. You would be sure to improve!"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It was as illegible as a doctor's prescription written with a post office pen in the rumble seat of a second-hand car." —(English Digest)

EARL'S PEARLS: "Bigamy," says Hank Grant, "is proof that two rites can make a wrong."

MEMORABLE QUOTES: "I believe in big families. Every woman should have three husbands." —(Zsa Zsa Gabor)

Cornelius Ryan, author of "The Longest Day," has said: "My first novel sold only 900 copies. That was the number of friends my mother had... That's earl, brother."

Curiosity Pays Off For Grade 9 Pupil

Science and English are the two favorite subjects of Stephen Borradaile, 14, of 1032 Topaz, who has won a Hammond's Library Atlas for a question submitted to the "Ask Andy" column in the Times.

The question was: "Where does the tailorbird live?" It is answered in today's column.

Stephen became curious when he ran across the bird's name in a book. It did not mention where the bird came from so he decided to ask Andy.

STEPHEN BORRADAILE

FIRST PRIZE

"I've submitted other questions before," he said. "But I have never won anything."

Stephen's special bent is in the field of electronics. He owns a shortwave receiving set and has contacted on occasions faraway places, like Peking, China and Cuba.

He is a grade 9 pupil in S. J. Willis Junior High School. He can swim and play the cornet. One of his hobbies is building models of old ships.

Stephen likes to go fishing with his father off the breakwater. He has caught bass. His biggest catch so far is a six-pound snapper.

He has a sister, Lois, 13.

Like most boys, Stephen likes dogs. He owns a Pekinese named "Chang."

'PROUD BREED'

"Some people think Pekinese are inclined to be vicious or bad tempered," he said. "But they are not; unless they are teased too much. They are a very proud breed."

When asked about his reading habits, Stephen confessed he didn't read too many books. "But when I read a book, I read it," he said. "I read it thoroughly and remember what I've read."

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other interesting prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions by letter will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 2-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Stephen Borradaile, age 14, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

Where does the tailorbird live?

The tailorbirds are warblers that enjoy life in warm climates. In the Philippine Islands lives an olive-colored tailorbird who wears a red cap on his head. He warbles among the bamboo thickets, and when the time comes to build a nest, he sews the larger leaves together with strands of grass.

There are other tailorbirds in Africa and Malaya. All of them are warblers and all of them are expert tailors. They use fibers and grasses as threads to sew large leaves together into little pockets which they use as their nests.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Patricia Graham, age 12, of Jarrat, Va., for her question:

How do we hear sound?

The pretty pink ears on the sides of your head do very little to help you hear sounds. They are merely the outer ears. Birds, seals and many other animals have very well without having these outer ears. The real organs of hearing are located deep in the skull. These middle and inner ears are small and very complicated.

The outer ear is merely a funnel to trap sound and lead it into the inner hearing organ. Sound is vibrating energy, and it passes through the hole in the outer ear into a tunnel. This is the auditory canal, and it carries the sound waves about one and a quarter inches into the skull. There it is sealed with a cone-shaped door of skin called the ear drum. The vibrating sound beats on the ear drum, and the ear drum shivers and booms. The sound is carried through the drum skin into a chamber called the middle ear. There is a chain in this chamber of three, complicated little bones called the hammer, anvil and stirrup. The middle ear is filled with air, and the little bones transmit the sound waves still deeper into the skull.

The tiny stirrup bone transmits the sound into the inner ear, which is a very complicated maze of tunnels and passageways. Some of these tunnels operate to help us keep our balance. Others carry sounds to the nerve endings, which send their information to the brain.

The inner ear is filled with fluids, and the sound waves pass through a chamber called the vestibule to a spiral system of tunnels called the cochlea. Some of the walls of the cochlea are lined with tiny fibers. There are about 24,000 of them, some longer and some shorter than others. These fibers carry impulses to the nerves which reach the brain.

Sound vibrations pass through the outer ear and middle ear and finally reach the liquid-filled inner ear. Here they stir the thousands of tiny fibers, and they, in turn, send impulses to the tiny nerve endings. These small nerves connect to form larger nerves which lead to the brain. There the noisy information from outside is sifted and sorted. In a flash, the brain can tell whether the sound you hear came from a drum or a dog, a train or a telephone conversation.

Hotel Owner
Opposes Pay
Legislation

Complaint that B.C. minimum wage legislation which became effective at the first of the year discriminates against rural tourist operators was heard at a meeting of the Victoria and Southern Vancouver Island local of the B.C. Auto Courts and Resorts Association in Victoria Wednesday.

Demis M. Hurley of the Shawnigan Beach Hotel said rural conditions were such that operators should be allowed to pay less to students and other non-professional workers than the $1 an hour minimum.

He said the new law made it necessary to raise wages of regular staff in proportion to the increase in minimum wages from 65 cents to $1.

Victoria operator Fred Martin said the matter would be brought up for discussion at a meeting of B.C. association officials in Vancouver today.

Soviet Trawlers Seen
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A fleet of five Russian fishing trawlers was sighted in international waters off Palm Beach Tuesday, the coast guard said. The coast guard said the report came from two sources. The 200-foot-long ships were pointed toward Cuba where it was reported recently that Russia is constructing a fishing port.

MONTE ROBERTS

An incident which occurred yesterday set me to thinking once more about a favorite topic of mine, namely, telephone manners.

Yesterday I woke up feeling coldish and flu-ish (doesn't everyone? What we need is a good, healthy, cold spell) and decided to goot off for the day in an effort to fight my way back to subnormal.

Thus I curled up under the blankets with an assortment of fast-acting, instant relief, double-your-money-back remedies in my tummy, a hot water bottle at my back, and a long winter's nap in my mind.

I was deep, deep, deep in a semidoped sleep when the phone started to ring.

Now, I don't know about you.

But I cannot resist answering a telephone.

At first I was determined to ignore the persistent buzzing. After all, the whole purpose of staying home was to keep warm, avoid drafts, and have a tissue-repairing sleep.

But then, as usual, curiosity got the better of me, and I hauled out from under the covers, padded down the corridor in my bare feet, and mumbled a vague "Hello."

Came an elderly female voice from the other end: "Is Mrs. Brown there?"

"You must have the wrong number," I growled. (I'm afraid "growled" is the only word for it.)

"Oh, dear," said the voice. "I'm SO sorry. I DO hope I haven't disturbed you."

"Not at all," I said, lying in my teeth. But the voice had been so polite, the apology so obviously sincere that it was impossible to remain angry.

That's what got me to thinking about telephone manners as I sneezed my way back into bed.

How many times have you been frustrated by a boorish hang-up of the receiver when you are the victim of a wrong number?

How many times, on the other hand, when you inadvertently dial incorrectly, do you get the same treatment before you have a chance to apologize?

These are only two examples of bad telephone manners which tend to make me walk around in circles, my neck twisted to one side.

People who answer the phone with a snarl, and people who use the phone to try to get a pet beef aired in the paper but refuse to give their names, are two more reasons why I sometimes wish Dr. Bell had devoted his talents to inventing something more constructive, such as a good five-cent cigar.

But I guess there's no use complaining. Telephones are like women; you can't do anything with them, but you can't do without them, either.

Pardon me, I'm wanted on the phone.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

"A" group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey parking lot for a field trip to Goldstream Park. The Nature House at Francis Park will be open on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sooke Man Hurt When Car Hits Telephone Pole

A Sooke man was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital after his car collided with a telephone pole on the Sooke Road early this morning.

James Harden, 19, Sooke Road, was driver of a car which left the highway and smashed into the power pole at about 1:15 a.m.

He was admitted to hospital with chest, right ankle, and facial injuries, and was reported in fairly good condition today.

St. Joseph's Hospital reported William Lane, 2286 Amelia, was in good condition today following a three-car crash at Douglas and Carey about 7:15 Thursday night.

Lane suffered facial lacerations and broken teeth.

Mrs. Mary Hollinger, of Leigh Road, Langford, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after being involved in an accident at Graham and Vista Heights about 9 p.m. Thursday.

She suffered a back injury, but was discharged after treatment.

A flatbed truck slipped its brakes while parked on a hill Thursday, and rolled backwards into two houses.

No one was injured.

The truck, parked on Pembroke Street, mounted the sidewalk, took a corner and front steps off 724 Pembroke, and smashed into the house of Philip Chan, 720 Pembroke.

The front entrance of the Chan house was demolished, and the hallway and part of the living room damaged.

Geoffrey Mitchell was elected president of the Esquimalt New Democratic Party at its annual meeting in the Douglas Hall Thursday night.

Allan McKinney was elected vice-president; Ronald Heaps, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Isabelle Reuter, provincial council delegate.

Elected to the executive were Anne Skelton, Robert Saunders, Frank Mitchell, Len Stephenson and Stanley Lawrence.

Famous church classics spanning four centuries will be sung by the 63-voice Pacific Lutheran University Choir of the West in Christ Church Cathedral Saturday at 8 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the Canadian Lutheran Council in Victoria. A free-will offering will be collected.

Former commanding officer of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron based at Esquimalt, Capt. E. T. G. Madgwick, DSC, has been appointed to the Imperial Defence College in London. He commanded the Fourth for two years to September, 1962.

... But It Isn't

Could this be B.C.'s ebullient minister of highways, cheering acquisition of brand new departmental car? Perhaps it could be, but actually it is Bob Low whooping it up on behalf of Victoria Auto Show starting Tuesday at Memorial Arena.

Car he's in is one of first convertible Corvairs to be made in Canada, and will be among "million dollar" line-up of latest in the automobile world. —(Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

IT'S STARTED

Questions, Questions, Questions

Did British Columbia import any eggs from Poland last year?

The question is one of 90 asked by Opposition members of the Legislature in the House's votes and proceedings. The questions cover the entire spectrum of provincial affairs.

J. H. Rhodes (NDP—Delta) asked if eggs were imported from the United States, Poland and other countries. If the answer was yes, Agriculture Minister Richter was asked to say how many.

ELECTION EXPENSE

New Democratic Party Opposition Leader Robert Strachan asked for the election expenses of the parties in the Revelstoke and Vancouver-Point Grey by-elections last year. The NDP retained its hold in Revelstoke and the Liberals took a Point Grey seat held by the Social Credit government.

Among other things Mr. Strachan asked: If any flats to commence action against the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority were requested in 1962 and how many were issued; whether any mineral claims were registered in the name of Lundberg Explorations, Wenner-Gren Explorations Ltd. and Wenner-Gren British Columbia Development Company; the expenditures made by the province for education last year.

WHO PAID?

Liberal leader Ray Perrault asked whether the government paid for advertising space in the Wall Street Journal in November and if so what was the cost and size of the advertisement, what agency prepared the material and what were production costs in relation to the ad.

Gordon Dowling (NDP—Burnaby) asked several questions on mental health service, including how many patients now are in residence at the Woodlands School at Tranquille, near Kamloops, and how many patients are awaiting entry.

8-Month Term For Attempt At Extortion

Alan Ramsay, 1009 Southgate, who pleaded guilty to attempted extortion from a well-known Oak Bay man, was sentenced in city police court today to eight months definite and four indeterminate in the Young Offenders' Unit.

He was charged with attempting to extort $2,500 from John Todd, 451 Newport, Jan. 14.

He had telephoned Mr. Todd and offered to sell him two tapes and a photograph which he claimed would be damaging to his reputation. Mr. Todd, however, went to the police, and Ramsay was caught at Beacon Hill Park where he was waiting for his victim to deliver the money.

APOLOGIZED

In police court today Ramsay apologized to Mr. Todd for the personal humiliation which I have brought to him and the inconvenience I have caused.

He told the court: "The information which I led him to believe I had, I did not. It was a lie."

Magistrate William Ostler told the youth he had caused great harm to his victim.

"You have caused his name to be the subject of idle gossip and innuendo," he said. "It is idle for me to say that no punishment I could give you would undo the harm you have done in this case."

James E. Palmer, 16, of 664 Baker, pleaded guilty today to breaking into Glandford Elementary School Nov. 25, and into Colquitz Junior High School Dec. 24.

A quantity of sound equipment was stolen from each school.

Saanich juvenile officer Harry Adams testified Palmer had removed a plywood sheet from a window which had been broken earlier at Glandford School, and had taken an amplifier worth $158 from a classroom.

In company with another juvenile, he had bored a hole through a fire door with a brace and bit at Colquitz Junior High in order to unlock the panic bar.

A record player and a speaker were taken from the school.

The case was remanded to Thursday for probation report and sentence.

19 CHARGES

In juvenile court Thursday a 15-year-old was remanded after being charged with an attempted break-in at one school and theft from another.

Wendy, also in juvenile court, two other youths were charged with theft from Carey Road Cash and Carry, 4039 Carey, New Year's Eve.

Juvenile authorities said 19 charges have been laid so far in connection with the wave of recent break-ins.

Remember Horatio K. Boomer?

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The voices of the Scottish dog in Walt Disney's "Lady and the Tramp," the white rabbit in his "Alice in Wonderland," and a host of fabulous characters in the Fibber McGee and Molly radio show, came to Victoria Thursday and delighted both city Rotarians and members of the Boys' Club of Victoria.

With the voices came their owner, that eminent master of dialect B.H. Thompson, Jr., who is now a director of the Boys' Clubs of America.

Rousing Tribute

Mr. Thompson entertained Victoria Rotarians with hilarious stories told in a variety of dialects and accents and interlarded them with a rousing tribute to the Boys' Clubs of Canada and America.

Then, after a whirlwind tour of the city, he went round to the Boys' Club in the old fire hall at 1240 Yates, played ping-pong with the members—and got licked 15-12 by a boy named Dennis—the Menace Jenkins of 2938 Scott Street.

'Play Too Rough'

"You play too rough for me," he told the delighted youngster.

"This is a fine club," he said to director Ronald Hayward "but the premises aren't big enough for 579 members. I'll come back later and try and help you get a bigger place."

Earlier, Mr. Thompson told Rotarians there are now 530 boys' clubs in the U.S. and 86 in Canada, all of them helping to produce first-class citizens.

"In both countries the leadership has been outstanding Tuesday at Memorial Arena.

School Thefts Admitted By Juvenile

First of a number of youths arrested in Saanich for recent break-ins appeared in Saanich police court today after being transferred from juvenile court.

James E. Palmer, 16, of 664 Baker, pleaded guilty today to breaking into Glandford Elementary School Nov. 25, and into Colquitz Junior High School Dec. 24.

A quantity of sound equipment was stolen from each school.

Two-Way Pull On Mill Rates

Leaders Cautious On Throne Speech

By JOHN MIKA

Thursday's throne speech carried possibilities that could both ease and strengthen the upward pressure on municipal mill rates.

Reaction to the speech today was cautious but hopeful, largely reflecting the absence of any direct indications as to B.C. government intentions towards municipalities.

But one circumstance indirectly is bound to have an impact—the promise of pay increases for all provincial civil servants.

This almost clinches it for local civic unions seeking raises of some kind for their members.

CARRY WEIGHT

Regardless of how strongly municipal councils resist the demands, they will be faced with the fact that teachers have just won raises, federal civil servants have been promised increases and now the provincial employees too.

That kind of an argument is bound to carry weight with an arbitration board if negotiations fail.

On the credit side, civic and school board officials are fixing their hopes on a brief phrase in the speech indicating that grants to school districts will be increased this year.

The big question is to what extent—enough to keep pace with expanding school populations only or enough to substantially boost the province's present share of half of school costs?

"I would express the hope that it means the government is considering appropriate revision of the proportion in which education costs are borne," remarked B.C. School Trustees' president R. E. Lester.

"We can always hope that's what it means," said Mayor R. B. Wilson this morning.

He said this would be a method of substantially lightening the load on ratepayers.

WITHDRAW GRANTS

Last year Premier Bennett said he would withdraw per capita grants to municipalities in 1963.

Although this would boost municipal tax rates, it is the other side of the coin sought by the Union of B.C. Municipalities itself for the past three years.

Under its much-publicized Murison Plan, the UBCM urged the government to take over all school costs and other services to people and suggested that the per capita grants could be abolished as a result.

If such an arrangement is being planned by the government, the saving in school costs would far outweigh losses in the per capita grants.

SPCA manager David Beechling, who acts as poundkeeper on contract with the city, said the puppy had been taken to the pound as it was running astray Jan. 11 and had almost been run over twice at Fernwood and Bay.

He testified Hansen had come to the kennel Jan. 14 and had told the kennelman to "get out of the way or he would get hurt."

He said the dog owner earlier had made an abusive phone call to him.

The accused said he thought the dog had been picked up because it had no licence. It was too young for a licence, he said.

Painting Gear Stolen From Car

Painting equipment worth about $250 was stolen from a car parked in the Tally-Ho lot overnight, it was reported to city police.

Ben Johnson, 3283—Alder, was owner of two spray guns, 40 feet of hose, masks and strainers which were taken from his car after the front window on the passenger side was broken.

HUBCAPS STOLEN

The youths also will be charged with theft of a number of hubcaps found in their possession when police picked them up.

Those charged are expected to appear Saturday morning in juvenile and police courts, a police spokesman said.

Investigation is continuing. In addition, city and Saanich police reported today a number of pay phones had been damaged by vandals in the area. Receivers had been torn off at least four phones.

Police said the vandalism and thefts were not connected.

Five Arrests Follow Theft From Phones

City police have arrested three adults and two juveniles in connection with robberies from phone booths in the Victoria area overnight.

Police constables early this morning apprehended a number of youths, and further arrests were sparked by investigations conducted by the detective and uniform branches.

So far $64.15 taken from a number of pay phones in the city has been recovered.

The thefts were made from telephone kiosks at the corners of Bay and Fernwood, Cook and Hillside, Catherine and Lamson Streets. An unsuccessful attempt to rifle a phone at Quadra and Hillside also was discovered.

Arena Deficit Down Slightly

Memorial Arena Commission's semi-annual financial statement showed a slight improvement in the deficit position at the half-way mark this year.

The accounting for revenues and expenditures during the six months ended Nov. 30 was presented to a council meeting today.

It showed a deficit of $7,665, down from the $7,890 registered at the same time last year.

Total expenditure during the period was $35,004 and revenue was $47,339. Last year the corresponding figures were $49,236 and $41,355.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Does Canada lend much financial assistance to foreign countries? L.K.

A. Since the Second World War, Canada's financial assistance to other countries has exceeded $4.7 billion; more than half of this amount has been in outright grants.

Q. What would an auctioneer do if two people bid the same amount on a specific item at the same time and there was no further bidding? T.B.

A. By tradition, the bidder nearest the rostrum gets the item.

If the Cook Leaves You No Need to Go Hungry

By PENNY SAVER

A so-called friend of mine that baked bread every week has deserted me. She up and took off for Hawaii, leaving me to fend for myself. No doubt she thinks I am sitting home moping, counting the days until she returns. But I have news for her—I've discovered I don't need to bake bread.

I can buy a loaf for 18-cents with that home-made flavor. And for an extra penny I can have it sliced.

At this price you can choose between white, graham wheat, 100 per cent whole wheat, cracked wheat or malt. One reason this bread is different is because no stabilizers are added.

For 20 cents you can have a tasty cheese loaf; for 25 cents a fruit loaf. The cheese loaf wasn't out of the oven when I was there this morning, but I did sample the cheese buns. Light and fluffy with melted dots of cheese in the middle, they are oh, so good with—or between—meals.

I had dropped into visit this shop because I had heard the bread was delicious, but as it turned out they are also specialists in birthday cakes made to order. They can be ordered in the morning and picked up in the afternoon. Prices range between $1.35 and $2.75.

Fancy cakes made in generous proportions (not the one bite and it's gone size) are 90 cents a dozen. There are all sorts of pastries with marzipan filling, but the cake most appealing to Penny is called a lemon boat. It is a butter sponge muffin-size cake with cream filling and butter cream and lemon on the top.

If someone has gone away and left you to cook for yourself, phone Penny at 382-3131—we'll show them they're not indispensable.

Comitas Club Installation Saturday at Annual Dinner

Mrs. R. C. Newby has been named president of the Comitas Club, Victoria Chapter.

Other officers are Mrs. Leo Bawlf, vice-president; Mrs. W. G. Hughes, recording secretary; Mrs. Maurice Humber, correspondence; Mrs. D. Gordon Ferguson, treasurer; Mrs. Ken Murphy, literary; Mrs. K. G. Wiper, social and Miss Verna Beck, publicity.

The officers will be installed at the 25th annual dinner of the chapter in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel on Saturday evening. Members of Vancouver Chapter will be special guests at the dinner and at a sherry party prior to it.

On Sunday a luncheon is planned at the Lincoln Road home of the retiring president, Mrs. R. L. Buller, in honor of the out-of-town guests.

Among those coming from Vancouver for the weekend events are Mrs. E. G. Drake, president, Vancouver Chapter, Comitas Club; Mrs. E. Fuller, Mrs. O. Innes, Mrs. G. J. Cooke,

Hosts Committee

Mrs. Hugh Clarke was hostess in her Lafayette Street home recently when members of the Victoria Symphony Society women's committee met to discuss plans for a Wedgwood Tea in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room, Feb. 14. At the tea, Sir John Wedgwood will show a film and lecture on history and manufacture of the famous china. Mrs. Clarke's guests included Mrs. A. J. T. Laundry, co-convenor with the hostess; Mrs. D. Roxburgh, president; Mrs. M. Hinch and Mrs. H. Thirlwall.

Next Week

Date of the coffee party and afternoon tea planned by the Ladies Auxiliaries of South Vancouver Island District Council Royal Canadian Legion, in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room, is Thursday, January 31, and not as previously announced. Coffee party will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and afternoon tea from 2 to 4 p.m. There will be stalls of home cooking and miscellaneous articles.

Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, Monday in Elks Hall, 732 Cormorant Street. Dinner at 6:15 p.m. Official visit of provincial president, Mrs. B. F. McCloskey at 8 p.m.

EV 6-6131

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes received guests at the State Ball on Thursday evening, in the

arrived at the ball. They have been much feted by friends since Mr. Bell's arrival in the city last weekend. With them here are Col. and Mrs. Russell Ker.

Among guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Ostler, at left, and Air Commodore G. G. Truscott, RCAF, and Mrs. Truscott, Mrs.

Ostler wore a cream brocade formal with beaded bodice, and Mrs. Truscott, black lace and satin gown with draped side bow.

A new aide-de-camp to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor is Capt. P. Chaworth-Musters, Cobble Hill, V.I., pictured dancing with Mrs. Chaworth-Musters who wore an ivory brocade with pearl jewelry.

Laughter, Music and Dancing at Government House Thursday Night

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Another State Ball has come and gone—but the memory will linger on.

"One of the best," is the way a guest phrased it as "The Queen" signalled its end.

The crimson and gold ball-room at Government House was a perfect setting for those who danced and those who like to "sit out and chat" with friends.

Flowers banked the orchestra dais where Len Acres and his eight-piece orchestra presented a program of waltzes, fox trots and sambas.

Dress uniforms of the services, white tie and tails of other male guests and the attractive formal—all floor-length—of the ladies present added a final touch of color to a memorable occasion.

Mrs. Pearkes wore a pink lace gown with squared neckline and cap sleeves, silver accessories and pearl jewelry.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett chose a black chiffon formal with sheath skirt and embroidered bodice with floating chiffon capelet. Her jewels were black diamonds.

Mrs. R. B. Wilson wore a graceful smoke blue chiffon gown with draped skirt featuring a floating side panel and diamante outlining the low neckline and cummerbund.

Floor-length gown of black velvet with low décolletage was worn by Mrs. Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, wife of the newly appointed judge of the County Court. Complementing her gown was a diamond sunburst pin, matching earrings and diamante tiara.

A sapphire bracelet and earrings toned with the sapphire blue satin gown worn by Mrs. Hugh Stephen. Shoe—string straps were on the fitted bodice and full skirt had soft pleats.

Mrs. Charles Nash chose a gown of heavy white crepe, woven with an embossed effect. Gown was styled with a boat neckline and slim skirt. She wore a crystal and pearl necklace and earrings.

Delicate beading edged the boat neckline of the silver and pink gown of Mrs. W. C. Mearns. Bodice was silver and in blouse effect. A narrow pink tie belt cinched the waist of the slim skirt of rich pink silk. Crystal earrings gave a sparkling effect.

Champagne-toned brocade formed the sheath gown worn by Mrs. J. Courtney Haddock. It featured a scoop neckline and draping on the left side of the slim skirt. Turquoise rhinestone earrings, bracelet and necklace completed her ensemble.

A Nile green chiffon over taffeta gown was choice of Mrs. Robert Strachan. It was styled on Grecian lines with two long panels, knotted at the left shoulder and floating to back and front of gown. A shoulder cape extended from the front to the back panel. Crystal beads glinted on the wide belt. Rhinestone earrings were worn.

Mrs. Victor Browne. Gold lame gown, styled with shoe string straps and very full skirt.

Mrs. Michael Griffin. Gold brocade gown highlighted with four-panelled overskirt lined in ivory satin, fitted bodice, squared neckline and sheath skirt featured a back slit. This was worn with rhinestone jewelry in gold and brown tones.

Mrs. R. K. Kerfoot. Her cream brocade gown had tiny self-material buttons down the front from squared neckline to bottom hemline of the very full skirt. This was complemented with a triple-string pearl necklace and amethyst and pearl pin.

Mrs. J. H. McElney. A white satin floor-length gown with sheath-slim-skirt and tiny overblouse. She wore jade and diamond earrings.

Mrs. C. E. Rivett-Carnac. Black chiffon with very full skirt, tiny cap sleeves and draped neckline on the fitted bodice. Her jewels were a single strand of pearls and matching earrings.

Mrs. Ian Simpson. A silver-grey satin gown with pearl embroidery on the bodice and a slim skirt, slightly en train.

Princess Abkhazi. A gown in shades of gold, silver and turquoise styled with slim skirt, slightly en train and a neckline, high in front and dipping to low V at back. She wore pearls.

Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah. A sheath gown of white chiffon with over-all gold embroidery, styled with high neckline banded in same embroidery and draping at left side of skirt. With this she wore a three-stranded pearl necklace and diamond earrings.

Mrs. W. W. Taylor. A brocade gown in tones of black rose and green with corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Taylor and her husband came recently from Kelowna to make their home here.

Mrs. C. N. Woodward. A seafoam green strapless sheath with diamond jewelry. Mrs. Woodward and her husband, who is the son of a former lieutenant-governor of B.C., came from Vancouver for the ball.

Mrs. Brian Whitlow. White chiffon gown with tufted satin bodice and side drape topped with a graceful bow.

Mrs. Ron Worley. Black and gold brocade gown in sheath style, the skirt flaring slightly at the hem.

Mrs. Harold Husband. A slim sheath in white brocade, styled with graceful slits in the skirt at the ankles.

Mrs. George Masters. Classically-styled white brocade with fitted bodice and tiny shoulder straps. Her jewelry was a garnet necklace. Mrs. Nellie Barton. A lipstick red peau de sole formal and pearl jewelry. Mrs. Barton is from Prince Rupert.

All Enjoy Social 'Steam Bath'

By PAT DUFOUR and MARGE GILROY

The orchestra played "It's Too Darn Hot" from the Broadway show Kiss Me Kate—and no one argued as more than 3,000 people jammed into the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, Thursday afternoon, for the government reception that followed the opening of the Legislature.

Result was a temperature high enough for a Turkish bath.

Despite this, hundreds of women guests clutched their stoles of mink, muskrat, ermine and other assorted furs and valiantly struggled with a tea-time version of the Twist—for arms only—guiding their cups of tea through the perilous flight from saucer to mouth.

"When you've had your tea, leave by the entrance door on the right" boomed out over the microphone again and again. And leave they did, but many returned.

ROUND AND ROUND

Three women were heard comparing notes. They had made the trip to the ballroom via three of the receiving lines and were now planning an onslaught on the fourth and final set of hosts!

Of Personal Interest

Return Home

Mrs. R. Wade and her two children, Debbie and Brian, have returned to their home on Head Street after crossing to the mainland to wish "bon voyage" to Mrs. Wade's father, Mr. E. Fulcher, when he left in the Ss. Orsova for a holiday in Hawaii. Mr. Fulcher is now in Honolulu and staying at the Princess Kaiulani Hotel.

Annual Tea

There were more than 50 members and friends at the annual tea held Thursday afternoon in the Empress Hotel lounge by the Victoria Women's Progressive Conservative Association. Receiving guests were the vice-president of the group, Mrs. B. Ripley, and Mrs. R. Campbell. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. E. Mowat and Mrs. M. Muskett and assisting were Mrs. H. Ellis and Miss Kathleen Roberts. The group's secretary, Mrs. D. F. C. MacArthur, was in charge of tickets, assisted by the treasurer, Miss J. R. Simson. Convener of the tea was Mrs. Campbell.

plendent with mammoth arrangements of red and white carnations and red candles in silver candelabra but few took more than a passing glance as they queued to help themselves to the sandwiches and petits fours that disappeared almost as soon as the hotel staff brought them in.

IMPATIENT

One man decided not to wait until the refreshments were put on the table. He stood on tiptoe to scoop two handfuls of sandwiches from the tray a waiter carried high above guests heads.

Another eager sampler of food was 11-year-old Murray Smith who did his best to make up for the cup of coffee he agreed to forego because he "wouldn't have been able to manage the cup in the crowd."

Also showing a healthy interest in the rapidly disappearing refreshments was a group of four young boys.

They were Christopher Kissinger, Terry Boyko, Patrick and Kevin Hourigan, there with Mrs. M. Kissinger who looked delightful in a hat she'd "whipped up" that morning. Unappreciative of creative art, her young charges referred to it as a "flycatcher hat" but this didn't phase the dark-haired mother a bit.

Another "do-it-yourselfer" was heard telling her friend, "I made my dress from a Paris original model—and, my dear, the material cost me $20 a yard."

Victoria MLA, Donald Smith, never blinked an eye as he was caught handing out sandwiches just as His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes arrived and the orchestra struck up the first four chords of the National Anthem.

He stood, a tray of goodies poised in his left hand and a sandwich clutched high in the air with his other hand—and not a muscle moved.

FROM MAINLAND

Oldsters, too, were out in force. They included two busloads of Social Crediters that proudly sported white and green ribboned name cards and quietly told you that they'd come over from Vancouver at a "special rate of $5 return."

Wide-brimmed hats were seen everywhere. Could be their owners wore them for practical reasons as well as artistic. The extra inches gave them an edge on their smaller-hatted sisters as they practised tea-time ju jitsu with their tea cups and plates.

Others, with the wariness of professionals, slid into recesses of a folding screen to sip the precious beverage. Hardly was a cup emptied by its owner than there was another guest ready to take her place in the convenient "sanctuary."

Either on a diet or unable to face the sandwich scramble, one man made his way back to his group of friends. In one hand he held a solitary olive mounted on a saucer.

But in spite of this man's stringent quota, the government's guests stayed long enough in the sticky-warm atmosphere to demolish 45,000 sandwiches, 38,000 petits fours, 80 gallons of coffee and 75 gallons of tea.

BE SMART—

Some enchanting evening you will be the topic of conversation—and all because you dared to be dashing. Try these oversized earrings of fake semi-precious stones in a baroque setting with pink quartz teardrops on gold plate. One, two, three—large medallions of topaz-like stones set on old gold all in a row make your bib necklace the focal point of attention.

CITY OF VICTORIA LOCAL IMPROVEMENT (Initiative Plan)

Proposed construction of a curb and gutter on Mount Stephen Avenue (both sides) from Kings Road to Haultain Street, as a local improvement (INITIATIVE PLAN).

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

(1) The Council of the Corporation of the City of Victoria intends to construct a curb and gutter as above mentioned by a local improvement (INITIATIVE PLAN), and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting directly on the work.

(2) The estimated cost of the work is $2,177.77, of which $1,088.89 is to be paid by the Corporation, and the estimated special rate per foot frontage is $2.50/100. The special assessment is to be paid in fifteen annual instalments.

(3) Persons desiring to petition against undertaking the work must do so on or before 27th February, 1963.

City Clerk.

Dated 23rd January, 1963.

'Stubbornness' Cited in Death of Young Rider

NANAIMO—Coroner Russ Inkster says Allan Sheepwash, six, would be alive today if an agreement had been worked out on the operation of a highway crossing signal.

In an inquiry into the boy's death, the coroner referred to a "stubborn lack of co-operation" between the school board, the highways department and "certain individuals."

"I am being brutally frank, but we must face the fact this boy would probably be alive today if an agreement had been reached."

District highways superintendent John Morris said equipment had been installed enabling a flashing amber signal on busy Highway 19 near here to be made red at the push of a button.

However, he said it was not in operation at the time of the accident, because although the plan had been worked out with school authorities, "no agreement had been made for some organization to take over control of the light."

The coroner said it had always been his opinion a flashing amber traffic light "is a light for scorn, ridicule and derision."

The jury, finding the death an accident, urged the speed limit at the intersection be reduced to 30 miles an hour, and suggested the light should operate on a regular red-green stop-go basis.

The jury also suggested a closer check on the riding habits of children using bicycles.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Rebuilding of the Willows Hotel, destroyed in an early morning fire Saturday, is still uncertain.

Frank Iaci, one of the partners in the hotel said it was too soon to tell. Shareholders will consider the matter in the next month or so.

He said, the Willows filled a real need in the town.

Now there is no hotel right in the middle of town. There is no inexpensive hangout for the fishermen, loggers and others who come here for the weekends. We were on friendly terms with all our customers, and many of them had been staying at the hotel for over 20 years.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Steelhead fishing here continues to be the best in several years.

Ed Brunt came in with a 20-pound 4-ounce steelie from the Quinsam, only to have another angler land a bigger one a couple of days later.

Bill Clark caught a 21-pound 4-ounce steelhead in the Salmon River. He landed a 12 pounder in the same hole.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Reports that Campbell River and District Hospital was without power following the Willows Hotel Saturday fire were grossly exaggerated, administrator Art Lightfoot said today.

Moments after main wires were burned through and power failed, the auxiliary plant at the hospital took over and served the nurses' station, case and labor room, surgery, and plaster room, he said.

DUNCAN—The annual meeting of the Cowichan Jersey Cattle Club will be held Wednesday, Feb. 6, starting with a dinner at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Standen, Cowichan Station.

Special guest for the occasion will be Oliver Evans, Chilliwack, national Jersey field man.

PARKSVILLE—District commissioner Harry Butler of Parksville was recently honored with the presentation of a medal for 25 years outstanding work in scouting.

The presentation was made at the annual banquet of Mount Arrowsmith District Boy Scout Association by district assistant regional commissioner Jim Baker.

PORT ALBERNI—Charles Russell Updell, manager of a bureau here for the Nanaimo Free Press, died Thursday. He was 58.

Mr. Updell was born in Hamilton and before coming here in 1958 worked with the Moose Jaw Times-Herald. He had also lived in Penticton, B.C.

Surviving are the widow here, three sons and three daughters in Vancouver, Calgary and Nelson, B.C.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF OAK BAY
FOUL BAY ROAD
CURB AND GUTTER AND SIDEWALK CONSTRUCTION

Sealed tenders will be received by the Corporation of the District of Oak Bay up to 12 noon, Wednesday, February 20, 1963, for the construction of 9,700 (nine thousand seven hundred and sixty) linear feet of Curb and Gutter and a 4.5 foot concrete sidewalk, at which time they will be opened in public.

Plans, Specifications, Contract and Form of Tender may be obtained at the Oak Bay Municipal Hall, 2167 Oak Bay Avenue, Oak Bay, Victoria, B.C. The lowest or any bid not necessarily accepted.

NUCLEAR DEBATE

'Take a Stand' Urges Douglas

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas, expressing firm opposition to Canada acquiring nuclear warheads, said Thursday night government policy has been one of indecision and timidity.

"We urge the government to come out from behind this screen of double talk and take a stand," he said in the Commons.

"If you made a mistake in giving commitments, then be honest and renegotiate Canada's role in NATO and NORAD. Canadians will forgive an honest error in judgment, but not a transparent attempt to deceive them by refusing nuclear weapons with one hand and buying them with the other."

Mr. Douglas said the government has not been frank or fair with the people of Canada. External Affairs Minister Green and Defence Minister Harkness spoke with such different voices it was difficult to believe they sit in the same cabinet.

WOULD INVITE OTHERS

The NDP leader said his party believes Canada's best contribution to the world "consists in refusing to acquire nuclear weapons for its forces either at home or abroad." If Canada did acquire them, it would be an invitation to other countries to seek nuclear weapons from the United States or Russia.

Mr. Douglas sharply criticized the nuclear policy recently announced by Liberal Leader Pearson. Mr. Douglas said it was one of accepting nuclear weapons now and before the ink is dry on the agreement to start negotiating out of it.

"The Liberal position is completely without logic," Mr. Douglas said. "Why not negotiate ourselves out now?"

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson and Paul Martin (L.-Essex East) also pressed the government for a statement on nuclear policy.

But neither of the government's two spokesmen—Mr. Green and his parliamentary secretary, Heath Macquarrie—touched nuclear weapons policy in the day-long debate.

Stage Line Requests Fare Boost

Veteran Stages Ltd. has asked the Public Utilities Commission for permission to increase fares.

The firm, which operates a bus service to rural areas west of Victoria, is seeking an increase from rates which now are generally 4 1/2 cents a mile to a standard rate of five cents per mile.

A 20 per cent reduction in fare will be offered on all return trips if the PUC approves the application, a spokesman for Veteran Stages said.

Anyone wishing to oppose the firm's application to the PUC can file an objection with the Superintendent of Motor Carriers, 1740 West Georgia Street, Vancouver 5, up to Feb. 2.

Many plants continue to grow after nightfall and some actually grow more rapidly at night than during the day.

DOUKS' WANTS NEVER SAME

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa says she thinks the troubles of the wandering Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect are of their own making.

"If you go back 200 years the Sons were in trouble and it has been the same ever since."

"No one has been able to figure out quite what they want. It seems to keep changing."

Montreal Man New Manager Of Empress

Leslie C. Parkinson of Montreal will succeed retiring Cyril Chapman as manager of the Empress Hotel on March 1. R. A. Mackie, general manager of Canadian Pacific Hotels, announced in Montreal Thursday night.

Mr. Parkinson commanded the catering services of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps at Aldershot, England, during the Second World War and was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

He joined Canadian Pacific Hotels at the Royal York in 1929 and was manager of the Digby-Pines Hotel, Digby, N.S., and Chateau Lake Louise in the Rockies before his appointment as manager of food and beverage services for all C.P.R. hotels in 1958.

In Victoria today, Mr. Parkinson spoke highly of Mr. Chapman's work in expanding the hotel's services and bringing more tourists here.

"I intend to carry on what Mr. Chapman has been doing in the line of tourist promotion," he said.

Mr. Chapman joined the C.P.R. hotels at Montreal in 1923. He was successively assistant manager of the Hotel Saskatchewan, Regina; Chateau Lake Louise, the Royal Alexandra in Winnipeg, the Banff Springs Hotel and the Royal York.

Before coming to Victoria he was for 20 years manager of the Log Chateau at the Seignior Club, Montebello, Que.

He is a member of Victoria Golf and Country Club and plans to remain in Victoria.

NEW YORK (AP)—Otto A. Harbach, 89, author of such well known songs as Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, Indian Love Call and Cuddle Up a Little Closer, died Thursday at his home. Harbach was recognized as the dean of American librettists and was a world famous playwright and lyricist.

Dock Contract Near

NEW YORK (UPI)—Longshoremen in the New York-New Jersey area voted overwhelmingly to accept a new contract settlement that would end the lengthy waterfront strike, the International Longshoremen's Association reported today.

However, obstacles to a contract agreement in two cities still dimmed hopes that a back-to-work order would be issued this weekend in the Maine-Texas walkout.

Herring Plan Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—A recommendation that would allow Japanese fishing vessels to take herring off the west coast of British Columbia's Queen Charlotte Islands is under study by the government, it was reported Thursday.

Charges Delayed In Stock Probe

Fraud charges against Ontario politicians and B.C. businessmen probably won't be laid until June pending further investigations, it was learned today.

A recent exchange of information by investigators from the B.C. and Ontario attorneys' departments failed to wind up the Northern Ontario Natural Gas case.

Exhaustive investigations in Ontario may take it to June before names are named.

The charges will involve failure to disclose secret share transactions before the public issue of Nong stock and perjury in Ontario's 1958 inquiry into the gas company.

About 10 persons will be involved—five of them from Ontario and reportedly all active in politics.

Two B.C. businessmen, one from Alberta and at least one from the U.S. are also involved. Another British Columbian may be a key witness.

But B.C. officials were angry about reports in Toronto that they had supplied this information. They said they had no comment on the case and they had not given any.

Husband Fined After Rampage In Own House

A man who did $224.82 damage to windows and property of the house in which his estranged wife lives was fined $50 in Saanich police court Thursday and given a six-months suspended sentence.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of wilful damage.

Alexander Bull went to the house owned jointly by himself and Mrs. Elma Bull, about 2:30 a.m. New Year's Day.

He smashed in the front door, broke the front of the television set, overturned the chestfield, broke a leg off a coffee table, threw a rocking chair through a window, smashed 13 panes of leaded glass on an inside door, and smashed a dining-room chair.

He also damaged the refrigerator, threw food around the kitchen, scattered a Christmas tree and ornaments around the house, overturned a bed and dresser and shattered a mirror.

He smashed $74.80 worth of windows in the house.

He was arrested for being intoxicated at the same time he was charged with the damage, and was fined $10 on this charge Thursday.

Funeral Held For Former Gov't Surveyor

Funeral services were held in McCall Brothers funeral chapel at 1 p.m. today for Andrew Louis Fraser, 855 Vancouver Street, who died here Tuesday, aged 85.

Mr. Fraser, a former member of the B.C. government surveys department, carried out surveys on the Gold Coast (now Ghana), the Fiji Islands and in Australia before coming to Victoria.

Born at Halewood, Lancashire, he is survived by the widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Fraser, and a brother and two nephews in England.

NUMBERS RACKET CRACKED

CHICAGO (UPI)—Internal revenue agents and city police raided a $3,000,000 numbers racket Thursday night in the biggest "policy" crackdown since the Second World War reign of the Jones brothers.

It was believed the raid struck at the heart of the crime syndicate and would halt—at least temporarily—the numbers racket in Chicago.

U.S. District Attorney James P. O'Brien said the raids climaxed 18 months of investigation by his office and the police intelligence division.

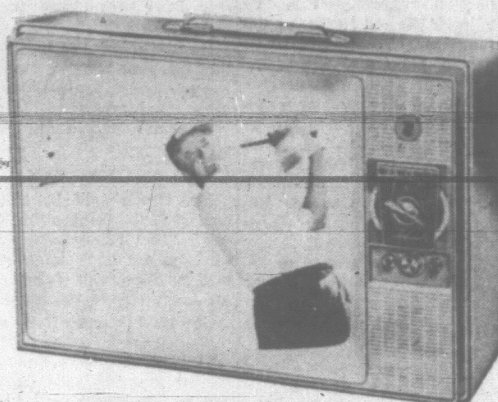

A force of 60 policemen and a dozen internal revenue service agents raided the headquarters. Thirty men were arrested.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

With its reaching of snowy ostrich plume and its archaic elegance, the fore-and-aft hat worn by the lieutenant-governor to the Thursday opening was very fine head-gear indeed.

But the Throne speech which issued from under 'its beak, though, spoken loud and clear, was so feeble an effort that I regret Mr. Pearkes as Her Majesty's emissary was required to lend it the dignity of his office.

I don't propose to waste much space on the premier's wet firecracker, except to note that Mr. Bennett, usually a brilliant showman, must do better than this if he hopes to better the favor of provincial voters more inclined to look Social Credit gift horses in the teeth than they were a year ago.

Goodies were promised by the premier, and one danger constant when a party retains its place by bread and games—goodies the taxpayer expects to receive.

Two Are New

So much for Mr. Bennett's failure to magic the anticipated rabbit from under the ostrich-trimmed hat. I offer you now a more amiable spectacle: the seating in a traditional and graceful little ceremony of two new members in our House.

One was Dr. Patrick L. McGeer, Vancouver Point Grey, whose mother wore a red Liberal rose for the occasion. But since Thursday was a day for hats, we'll pass on to Mrs. Margaret Francis Hobbs, Revelstoke's NDP gift to the House.

Mrs. Hobbs' bonnet, on an afternoon and in a place where the millinery adds piquancy to a scene already florid, was a veritable tossed salad in new-leaf green. In dress to match, Mrs. Hobbs rose as two seniors of her party strode down the turkey-red carpet and halted before her.

One on either side, they escorted her toward the Speaker, North Okanagan's Hon. L. H. Shantz.

Hand In Palm

Durable Arthur Turner from Vancouver East cupped her left hand delicately in his palm; and thus they proceeded up the aisle to the Speaker's chair—to recognition, acceptance, and a desk-thumping ovation from ministers and members.

For myself, observing from a press gallery where I last wore my elbows shiny a good many years past, Thursday was a day of ghosts. The shade who stood clearest was a heavy set little man with a big voice; eloquent, truculent, and almost hypnotically persuasive.

His name was Thomas Dufferin Pattullo, Cassandra-like in 1941, Premier Pattullo battled against the proposed coalition which he felt would cripple the Liberal party he had spent 13 years revitalizing in B.C.

Finally he loaded his political fortunes on an ultimatum, hurried it, and lost.

Later, in a crowded room of the Hotel Georgia suite where his party broke Duff Pattullo's sword for him, reporters asked the old warrior for a statement.

What words he muttered, I forget, but this I do remember: while he spoke, his tears dripped on my notes.

Not the Same

"The only Liberal left," as he termed himself, sat on until 1945. But he was never the same man.

I remember others who once graced our House. John Hart with his kingfisher crest of silver-white hair... the Winches, deliberate father and hothead son, and very good men both... but it was Duff Pattullo's ghost that kept returning Thursday as we learned among other trenchant facts that pig iron production has risen at Kimberley.

Sign of the Dog

Simple folk who believe in signs and portents read any number of meanings into appearance of dog at formal opening of legislature Thursday. For instance, it was black—so, who is frightened? It was a pooch—so, was throne speech a mutt? Was it an expression of opinion of government? Or was it merely one of Victoria's stray canine oafs which invariably clowns-up such an occasion?

'Empty Speech' Leaves House In Quandary

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The B.C. legislature opened Thursday with what Opposition leaders branded "an empty speech" from the throne outlining few government plans for 1963.

It pricked the balloon of speculation which was puffed up by Premier Bennett's refusal to release advance copies as usual to the press.

The speculation was that it contained something of extreme importance and that the important thing concerned a new deal on the government's B.C. Electric takeover.

B.C. Electric wasn't mentioned. Nor was any new power policy.

The 2,000-word speech read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was longer and yet less newsworthy than usual.

NO MENTION

There was no mention of the premier's promise to double the home-owner grant, nor many other legislative and policy expectations.

Asked why the secrecy, Mr. Bennett later told reporters: "That's this government, my friends—fair play for everybody and special privileges for none."

If there was any real reason, it was apparently the fact that the speech contained so little news.

See Stories
Pages 2, 10

The stories about the secrecy and B.C. Electric made up for the disappointing contents.

REMOVE TOLLS

The closest thing to a surprise was the promise to remove tolls from Vancouver's First and Second Narrows bridges.

If the speech had any special slant, it was for education.

Legislation, already promised, making Victoria College an independent university was confirmed. So were bigger grants for Victoria and the University of B.C.

There will be bigger grants for schools and for technical and vocational education, scholarships and bursaries.

There will be amendments (unspecified) to the Public Schools Act.

The government formally announced approval of the establishment.

$33 Million Surplus To Pay Bridge Debt

Premier Bennett will splurge $33,000,000 of his budget surplus this year to pay off the debt of five toll bridges, the Times learned today.

The tolls will come off April 1. Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi disclosed in an interview.

"There'll be no debt," he said.

"Immediately the bridges are toll-free they'll be paid for."

The five bridges are Vancouver's First and Second Narrows, and Okanagan Lake, Nelson and Agassiz.

Total outstanding debt on these bridges at last March 31 was $33,209,998.

Mr. Gagliardi said the debt will be paid off from the government's general revenue surplus fund, built up from budget to budget over the years.

This is the debt breakdown on the five bridges as of March 31 last:

First and Second Narrows $17,476,689; Okanagan $7,868,421; Nelson $4,009,471; Agassiz $3,855,417.

The bridges all received government subsidies to meet operational costs. The three up-country bridges, all lost money.

B.C. Power Shares Lose Up to $1.65

Shares of B.C. Power Corp. Ltd. lost up to $1.65 in stock market trading as a result of failure of the B.C. throne speech to make any mention of further compensation for confiscation of the B.C. Electric.

B.C. Power shares traded as high as $33 earlier in the week on speculation that a new deal

WALTON COLE

Reuter's Chief Dies at 50

LONDON (Reuters) — Walton Adamson Cole, 50, general manager of Reuters news agency and one of the most distinguished figures in world journalism, died here today.

Cole collapsed in his office this afternoon.

He recently had suffered a severe bronchial attack, but appeared to be making a gradual recovery and had returned to work.

EDITOR AT 32

Tony Cole, as he was known to news executives and friends in practically every part of the five continents, in a meteoric climb to the top of his profession achieved the editorship of the world news agency when he was 32.

He was only 47 when he was appointed to its executive direction as general manager.

With a possibly unparalleled record of travel on Reuters affairs, he had established close contacts with leaders of the newspaper business in all parts of the world.

He had met and talked with most of the world's political leaders—among them President Kennedy, ex-president Eisenhower, Premier Khrushchev, Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Xi, heads of European states and practically all Commonwealth leaders.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The International Longshoremen's Association today ordered picket lines pulled down immediately along the east and Gulf coasts and said longshoremen would return to work Saturday. (See Page 23).

Dief Nuclear Stand Evasion Says Pearson

'Let Us Keep Pledged Word'

Times News Services

OTTAWA—Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson today branded Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's refusal to make a firm commitment on nuclear weapons for Canada a complete evasion of national responsibility.

The Liberal leader, on the second day of a special Commons debate on defence, reiterated his party's contention that this country had no present alternative but to accept nuclear arms at home and abroad to meet commitments made more than three years ago. (See also Page 23).

"It is humiliating and dishonorable for Canada to make commitments and not discharge them," he said. "Canada cannot maintain a position of respect and influence in world affairs in such a situation."

The prime minister's stand, as outlined to last week's Conservative meeting, that the government should not make any firm commitment while western defence policy was in a state of flux was "only an argument for not doing anything," Pearson said.

"To us this is an excuse for inaction doesn't make any sense," he said. "Let us keep our pledged word; let's end this complete evasion of responsibility."

"We can only do that by acquiring nuclear warheads for our tactical weapons."

Pearson argued that this country has been committed to a nuclear role "beyond any shadow of doubt" since 1959. He read into the record a series of statements by Diefenbaker and the then defence minister, George Pearkes suggesting that a bilateral agreement to acquire nuclear warheads would be negotiated with the United States.

"This all confirms from the highest sources in the Canadian government what NATO and Canadian military leaders have been saying is the case—that there is indeed a nuclear commitment to the people of Canada and to our allies," the Liberal leader said.

Indications were that Diefenbaker would put the government's position on the record before the day was out.

Terms Norstad 'NATO Statesman'

Besides reiterating his party's stand on nuclear arms, Pearson made several other points, including:

A defence of retiring NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad who, during a recent farewell visit to this country, said Canada needed nuclear arms to meet its NATO commitments. Pearson called Norstad a "NATO statesman," and accused the government and opposition parties of "denigrating him and tearing him down" simply because his views did not agree with theirs.

An attack on anti-Americanism in Canada as "no proof of our Canadianism, but only our immaturity." While life beside a giant neighbor created problems and required constant attention by this country, "it must always be remembered that the greatest danger we have of losing our freedom comes not from U.S. imperialism but from Communist imperialism," he said.

Without specifically referring to French President Charles de Gaulle, a strong attack on "jealous and petty nationalism" that could "kill" the NATO alliance. National independence must be tempered by a recognition of the need for interdependence if the West was to remain strong.

Rejection of a suggested swan of a disbanded Warsaw pact on grounds that Soviet control over the Communist bloc would be unchanged even if the Warsaw pact was dissolved.

A charge that the Diefenbaker government during the past five years, had given parliament less information and discussion on defence policy than any legislature in the free world.

Rejection of arguments that nuclear weapons was a moral issue on grounds such a stand was "dishonest and hypocritical" unless Canada quit NATO and refused to sell uranium to any nation for military purposes.

It was completely absurd to argue, as the government had done, that the Bomarcas and other nuclear carriers could be armed after the start of a world-wide emergency.

Mr. Pearson said the Cuban crisis demonstrated that Canada should reach an agreement with the U.S. before a new emergency can develop on the armament of the three nuclear carriers.

"This has become an intolerable situation."

He said three nuclear warhead carriers acquired at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars—the CF-104 strike-reconnaissance aircraft, the Voodoo jet interceptor and the Bomarc missile—are useless without the warheads.

FULTON

UNOPPOSED

VANCOUVER (CP) — E. Davie Fulton, a political veteran at 46, stepped into the British Columbia political arena today.

He was unopposed for the leadership of the provincial Progressive Conservative Party when nominations closed at noon today, the second day of the party's annual meeting and leadership convention. (See Page 5.)

Weather In Europe Warms Up

LONDON (AP) — Europe's killer winter—which already has claimed more than 200 lives—showed signs today of slackening its grip on parts of northern Europe.

Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Bulgaria and parts of the Soviet Union were hit as the winter's fury concentrated on the south.

In Denmark, Germany and Belgium it was getting a little warmer. Britain, almost totally snowbound for more than a month, expected a slight thaw within 24 hours.

The normally sunny coasts of Spain and Portugal were struck by fierce storms. Nearly 300 persons waited through the night for rescue from two Spanish ships in difficulties in storm-ravaged bays of southern Spain.

Gales and rainstorms struck at the southern Spanish coast, smashing several fishing boats. Storms in Portugal sank two fishing craft of Vila Real and destroyed 14 more in Sagres Harbor.

Maritimes Hit By Gale Winds

By Canadian Press
Gale-force winds battered Newfoundland, a blizzard swept across New Brunswick and parts of Ontario were scenes of shivering, snow-clogged confusion Thursday.

In contrast, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island basked in spring-like weather and on the west coast it was almost balmy.

Chill Arctic winds swept the prairies, but snow presented few difficulties.

Cold Threatens Southern Crops

CHICAGO (AP) — Winter's longest and worst siege of cold weather clung to much of the United States today, causing a sharp rise in the death toll and threatening damage to crops in the southland.

The huge cold air mass covered most of the country from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast. It knifed deep into the south, where lowest temperatures of the century were recorded in some areas Thursday.

MONTE ROBERTS

An incident which occurred yesterday set me to thinking once more about a favorite topic of mine, namely, telephone manners.

Yesterday I woke up feeling coldish and flu-ish (doesn't everyone? What we need is a good, healthy, cold spell) and decided to goof off for the day in an effort to fight my way back to subnormal.

Thus I curled up under the blankets with an assortment of fast-acting, instant relief, double-your-money-back remedies in my tummy, a hot water bottle at my back, and a long winter's nap in my mind.

I was deep, deep, deep in a semidoped sleep when the phone started to ring.

Now, I don't know about you.

But I cannot resist answering a telephone.

At first I was determined to ignore the persistent buzzing. After all, the whole purpose of staying home was to keep warm, avoid drafts, and have a tissue-repairing sleep.

But then, as usual, curiosity got the better of me, and I hauled out from under the covers, padded down the corridor in my bare feet, and mumbled a vague "Hello."

Came an elderly female voice from the other end: "Is Mrs. Brown there?"

"You must have the wrong number," I growled. (I'm afraid "growled" is the only word for it.)

"Oh, dear," said the voice. "I'm SO sorry. I DO hope I haven't disturbed you."

"Not at all," I said, lying in my teeth. But the voice had been so polite, the apology so obviously sincere that it was impossible to remain angry.

That's what got me to thinking about telephone manners as I sneezed my way back into bed.

How many times have you been frustrated by a boorish hang-up of the receiver when you are the victim of a wrong number?

How many times, on the other hand, when you inadvertently dial incorrectly, do you get the same treatment before you have a chance to apologize?

These are only two examples of bad telephone manners which tend to make me walk around in circles, my neck twisted to one side.

People who answer the phone with a snarl, and people who use the phone to try to get a pet beef aired in the paper but refuse to give their names, are two more reasons why I sometimes wish Dr. Bell had devoted his talents to inventing something more constructive, such as a good five-cent cigar.

But I guess there's no use complaining. Telephones are like women; you can't do anything with them, but you can't do without them, either.

Pardon me, I'm wanted on the phone.

... But It Isn't

Could this be B.C.'s ebullient minister of highways, cheering acquisition of brand new departmental car? Perhaps it could be, but actually it is Bob Low whooping it up on behalf of Victoria Auto Show starting Tuesday at Memorial Arena. Car he's in is one of first convertible Corvairs to be made in Canada, and will be among "million dollar" line-up of latest in the automobile world. —(Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

IT'S STARTED

Questions, Questions, Questions

Did British Columbia import any eggs from Poland last year?

The question is one of 90 asked by Opposition members of the Legislature in the House's votes and proceedings.

The questions cover the entire spectrum of provincial affairs.

J. H. Rhodes (NDP-Delta) asked if eggs were imported from the United States, Poland and other countries. If the answer was yes, Agriculture Minister Richter was asked to say how many.

ELECTION EXPENSE

New Democratic Party Opposition Leader Robert Strachan asked for the election expenses of the parties in the Revelstoke and Vancouver-Point Grey by-elections last year. The NDP retained its hold in Revelstoke and the Liberals took a Point Grey seat held by the Social Credit government.

Among other things Mr. Strachan asked: If any flats to commence action against the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority were requested in 1962 and how many were issued; whether any mineral claims were registered in the name of Lundberg Explorations, Werner-Gren Explorations Ltd. and Werner-Gren British Columbia Development Company; the expenditures made by the province for education last year.

WHO PAID?

Liberal leader Ray Perrault asked whether the government paid for advertising space in the Wall Street Journal in November and if so what was the cost and size of the advertisement, what agency prepared the material and what were production costs in relation to the ad.

Gordon Dowling (NDP-Burnaby) asked several questions on mental health services, including how many patients now are in residence at the Woodlands School at Tranquille, near Kamloops, and how many patients are awaiting entry.

8-Month Term For Attempt At Extortion

Alan Ramsay, 1009 Southgate, who pleaded guilty to attempted extortion from a well-known Oak Bay man, was sentenced in city police court today to eight months definite and four indeterminate in the Young Offenders' Unit.

He was charged with attempting to extort $2,500 from John Todd, 451 Newport, Jan. 14.

He had telephoned Mr. Todd and offered to sell him two tapes and a photograph which he claimed would be damaging to his reputation. Mr. Todd, however, went to the police, and Ramsay was caught at Beacon Hill Park where he was waiting for his victim to deliver the money.

APOLOGIZED

In police court today Ramsay apologized to Mr. Todd "for the personal humiliation which I have brought to him and the inconvenience I have caused."

He told the court: "The information which I led him to believe I had, I did not. It was a lie."

Magistrate William Ostler told the youth he had caused great harm to his victim.

"You have caused his name to be the subject of idle gossip and innuendo," he said. "It is idle for me to say that no punishment I could give you would undo the harm you have done in this case."

CONTROVERSIAL Anglican, Canon John Collins, who is chairman of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament and who led the famous Aldermaston March in England, will speak about "The Christian and Peace" at Holyrood House Feb. 20. The Victoria committee of the Voice of Women is sponsoring the Canon of St. Paul's on his appearance here.

Mrs. Collins, author of a book on Christian Action and editor of the CND's quarterly newsletter, will also speak at the meeting.

Public Library Film Showing

Victoria Public Library will present the following films at its regular film showing in the music room from 3 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday:

Royal Scotland: Depicts the highlands of Scotland and the Royal Family at Balmoral.

South Africa: A tour of the union starting at Capetown and Victoria Falls via the garden route, Durban Drakensberg Mountains, Zululand, Pretoria and Kruger National Park.

The Master Voice Comes to Town

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The voices of the Scottie dog in Walt Disney's "Lady and the Tramp," the white rabbit in his "Alice in Wonderland," and a host of fabulous characters in the Fibber McGee and Molly radio show came to Victoria Thursday and delighted both city Rotarians and members of the Boys' Club of Victoria.

With the voices came their owner, that eminent master of dialect Bill Thompson, Jr., who is now a director of the Boys' Clubs of America.

Mr. Thompson entertained Victoria Rotarians with hilarious stories told in a variety of dialects and accents and interlarded them with a rousing tribute to the Boys' Clubs of Canada and America.

Then, after a whirlwind tour of the city, he went 'round to the Boys' Club in the old fire hall at 1240 Yates, played ping-pong with the members—and got licked 15-12 by a boy named Dennis the Menace Jenkins of 2938 Scott Street.

School Thefts Admitted By Juvenile

First of a number of youths arrested in Saanich for recent break-ins appeared in Saanich police court today after being transferred from juvenile court.

James E. Palmer, 16, of 664 Baker, pleaded guilty today to breaking into Glanford Elementary School Nov. 23, and into Colquitz Junior High School Dec. 24.

A quantity of sound equipment was stolen from each school.

Saanich juvenile officer Harry Adams testified Palmer had removed a plywood sheet from a window which had been broken earlier at Glanford School, and had taken an amplifier worth $138 from a classroom.

In company with another juvenile, he had bored a hole through a fire door with a brace and bit at Colquitz Junior High in order to unlock the panic bar.

A record player and a speaker were taken from the school.

The case was remanded to Thursday for probation report and sentence.

19 CHARGES

In juvenile court Thursday a 15-year-old was remanded after being charged with an attempted break-in to a school and theft from another.

Wednesday, also in juvenile court, two other youths were charged with theft from Carley Road Cash and Carry, 4039 Carey, New Year's Eve.

Juvenile authorities said 19 charges have been laid so far in connection with the wave of recent break-ins.

Two-Way Pull On Mill Rates

Leaders Cautious On Throne Speech

By JOHN MIKA

Thursday's throne speech carried possibilities that could both ease and strengthen the upward pressure on municipal mill rates.

Reaction to the speech today was cautious but hopeful, largely reflecting the absence of any direct indications as to B.C. government intentions towards municipalities.

But one circumstance indirectly is bound to have an impact—the promise of pay increases for all provincial civil servants.

CARRY WEIGHT

Regardless of how strongly municipal councils resist the demands, they will be faced with the fact that teachers have just won raises, federal civil servants have been promised increases and now the provincial employees too.

That kind of an argument is bound to carry weight with an arbitration board if negotiations fail.

On the credit side, civic and school board officials are fixing their hopes on a brief phrase in the speech indicating that grants to school districts will be increased this year.

The big question is to what extent—enough to keep pace with expanding school populations only or enough to substantially boost the province's present share of half of school costs?

"I would express the hope ... that it means the government is considering appropriate revision of the proportion in which education costs are borne," remarked B.C. School Trustees' president R. E. Lester.

"We can always hope that's what it means," said Mayor R. B. Wilson this morning.

He said this would be a method of substantially lightening the load on ratepayers.

WITHDRAW GRANTS

Last year Premier Bennett said he would withdraw per capita grants to municipalities in 1963.

Although this would boost municipal tax rates, it is the other side of the coin sought by the Union of B.C. Municipalities itself for the past three years.

Under its much-publicized Murison Plan, the UBCM urged the government to take over all school costs and other services to people and suggested that the per capita grants could be abolished as a result.

If such an arrangement is being planned by the government, the saving in school costs would far outweigh losses in the per capita grants.

Painting Gear Stolen From Car

Painting equipment worth about $250 was stolen from a car parked in the Tally-Ho lot overnight, it was reported to city police.

Ben Johnson, 3283 Alder, was owner of two spray guns, 40 feet of hose, masks and strainers which were taken from his car after the front window on the passenger side was broken.

Five Arrests Follow Theft From Phones

City police have arrested three adults and two juveniles in connection with robberies from phone booths in the Victoria area overnight.

Police constables early this morning apprehended a number of youths, and further arrests were sparked by investigations conducted by the detective and uniform branches.

So far $64.15 taken from a number of pay phones in the city has been recovered.

The thefts were made from telephone kiosks at the corners of Bay and Fernwood, Cook and Hillside, Catherine and Lamson Streets. An unsuccessful attempt to rifle a phone at Quadra and Hillside also was discovered.

HUBCAPS STOLEN

The youths also will be charged with theft of a number of hubcaps found in their possession when police picked them up.

Those charged are expected to appear Saturday morning in juvenile and police courts, a police spokesman said.

Investigation is continuing.

In addition, city and Saanich police reported today a number of pay phones had been damaged by vandals in the area. Receivers had been torn off at least four phones.

Police said the vandalism and thefts were not connected.

Arena Deficit Down Slightly

Memorial Arena Commission's semi-annual financial statement showed a slight improvement in the deficit position at the half-way mark this year.

The accounting for revenues and expenditures during the six months ended Nov. 30 was presented to a council meeting today.

It showed a deficit of $7,665, down from the $7,880 registered at the same time last year.

Total expenditure during the period was $35,004 and revenue was $47,339. Last year the corresponding figures were $49,236 and $41,335.

ASK—The TIMES

Q. Does Canada lend much financial assistance to foreign countries? L.K.

A. Since the Second World War, Canada's financial assistance to other countries has exceeded $4.7 billion; more than half of this amount has been in outright grants.

Q. What would an auctioneer do if two people bid the same amount on a specific item at the same time and there was no further bidding? T.B.

A. By tradition, the bidder nearest the rostrum gets the item.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

"A" group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey parking lot for a field-trip to Goldstream Park.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

At the recent meeting of the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island, F. T. S. Sehl was elected president. Other officers were filled as follows: 1st vice president, I. J. Sankey; 2nd vice president, D. T. Roberts; secretary, P. E. Wilkinson; treasurer, H. L. Wollison; members of executive committee, W. H. Forrest, J. V. Henderson, C. J. Homes.

Capital Region Planning Board today asked city council to approve a $9,775 contribution towards its proposed $36,533 budget this year, up slightly from 1961.

The board also expects $8,697 from Saanich, $3,013 from Oak Bay, $2,156 from Esquimalt, $333 from Central Saanich, $271 from Sidney and the rest from the provincial government.

Victoria-British-Israel Association will hold a meeting on Monday at 3 p.m. in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street. E. W. Abraham will speak on the subject "The Bible Story of Creation."

Oak Bay Junior High PTA will meet in the school auditorium on Monday at 8 p.m.

A. E. Mourant, recreational supervisor for the D.V.A., will show the film "Play it Safe" and speak on the subject "A Nurse Looks at Safety for Children."

Capital City Speakers Group will meet in the City Hall council chambers on Monday at 6 p.m.

Sooke Man Hurt When Car Hits Telephone Pole

A Sooke man was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital after his car collided with a telephone pole on the Sooke Road early this morning.

James Harden, 19, Sooke Road, was driver of a car which left the highway and smashed into the power pole at about 1:15 a.m.

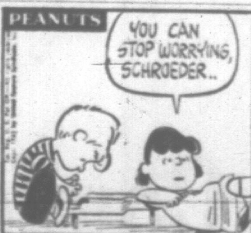

He was admitted to hospital with chest, right ankle, and facial injuries, and was reported in fairly good condition today.

St. Joseph's Hospital reported William Lane, 2286 Amelia, was in good condition today following a three-car crash at Douglas and Carey about 7:15 Thursday night.

Lane suffered facial lacerations and broken teeth.

Mrs. Mary Hollinger, of Leigh Road, Langford, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after being involved in an accident at Graham and Vista Heights about 9 p.m. Thursday.

She suffered a back injury, but was discharged after treatment.

Women

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes received guests at the State Ball on Thursday evening, in the drawing room at Government House. Here Mr. and Mrs. William Dobson of Duncan, go through the line.

Among guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Osler, at left, and Air Commodore G. G. Truscott, RCAF, and Mrs. Truscott, Mrs.

Osler wore a cream brocade formal with beaded bodice, and Mrs. Truscott, black lace and satin gown with draped side bow.

A new aide-de-camp to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor is Capt. P. Chaworth-Musters, Cobble Hill, V.I., pictured dancing with Mrs. Chaworth-Musters who wore an ivory brocade with pearl jewelry.

Laughter, Music and Dancing at Government House Thursday Night

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Another State Ball has come and gone—but the memory will linger on.

"One of the best," is the way a guest phrased it as "The Queen" signalled its end.

The crimson and gold ballroom at Government House was a perfect setting for those who danced and those who like to "sit out and chat" with friends.

Flowers banked the orchestra dais where Len Acres and his eight-piece orchestra presented a program of waltzes, fox trots and sambas.

Dress-uniforms-of-the-services, white tie and tails of other male guests and the attractive formal—all floor-length-of the ladies present added a final touch of color to a memorable occasion.

Mrs. Pearkes wore a pink lace gown with squared neckline and cap sleeves, silver accessories and pearl jewelry.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett chose a black chiffon formal with sheath skirt and embroidered bodice with floating chiffon capelet. Her jewels were black diamonds.

Mrs. R. B. Wilson wore a graceful, smoke blue chiffon gown with draped skirt featuring a floating side panel and diamante outlining the low neckline and cummerbund.

Floor-length gown of black velvet with low décolletage was worn by Mrs. Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, wife of the newly appointed judge of the County Court. Complementing her gown was a diamond-sunburst pin, matching earrings and diamante tiara.

A sapphire bracelet and earrings toned with the sapphire blue satin gown worn by Mrs. Hugh Stephen. Shoe string straps were on the fitted bodice and full skirt had soft pleats.

Mrs. Charles Nash chose a gown of heavy white crepe, woven with an embossed effect. Gown was styled with a boat neckline and slim skirt. She wore a crystal and pearl necklace and earrings.

Delicate beading edged the boat neckline of the silver and pink gown of Mrs. W. C. Mearns. Bodice was silver and in blouse effect. A narrow pink tie belt cinched the waist of the slim skirt of rich pink silk. Crystal earrings gave a sparkling effect.

Champagne-toned brocade formed the sheath gown worn by Mrs. J. Courtney Haddock. It featured a scoop neckline and draping on the left side of the slim skirt. Turquoise rhinestone earrings, bracelet and necklace completed her ensemble.

A Nile green chiffon over taffeta gown was choice of Mrs. Robert Strachan. It was styled on Grecian lines with two long panels, knotted at the left shoulder and floating to back and front of gown. A shoulder cape extended from the front to the back panel. Crystal beads glinted on the wide belt. Rhinestone earrings were worn.

Mrs. Victor Browne.

Gold lame gown, styled with shoe string straps and very full skirt.

Mrs. Michael Griffin.

Gold brocade gown highlighted with four-panelled overskirt lined in ivory satin, fitted bodice, squared neckline and sheath skirt featured a back slit. This was worn with rhinestone jewelry in gold and brown tones.

Mrs. R. K. Kerfoot.

Her cream brocade gown had tiny self-material buttons down the front from squared neckline to bottom hemline of the very full skirt. This was complemented with a triple-strand pearl necklace and amethyst and pearl pin.

Mrs. J. H. McElney.

A white satin floor-length gown with sheath-slim skirt and tiny overblouse. She wore jade and diamond earrings.

Mrs. C. E. Rivett-Carnac.

Black chiffon with very full skirt, tiny cap sleeves and draped neckline on the fitted bodice. Her jewels were a single strand of pearls and matching earrings.

Mrs. Ian Simpson.

A silver-grey satin gown with pearl embroidery on the bodice and a slim skirt, slightly en train.

Princess Abkhazi.

A gown in shades of gold, silver and turquoise styled with slim skirt, slightly en train and a neckline, high in front and dipping to low V at back. She wore pearls.

All Enjoy Social 'Steam Bath'

By PAT DUFOUR and MARGE GILROY

The orchestra played "It's Too Damn Hot" from the Broadway show South Pacific—and no one argued as more than 3,000 people jammed into the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, Thursday afternoon, for the government reception that followed the opening of the Legislature.

Result was a temperature high enough for a Turkish bath.

Despite this, hundreds of women guests clutched their stoles of mink, muskrat, ermine and other assorted furs and valiantly struggled with a tea-time version of the Twist—for arms only—guiding their cups of tea through the perilous flight from saucer to mouth.

"When you've had your tea, leave by the entrance door on the right" boomed out over the microphone again and again. And leave they did, but many returned.

ROUND AND ROUND

Three women were heard comparing notes. They had made the trip to the ballroom via three of the receiving lines and were now planning an onslaught on the fourth and final set of hosts!

The head tables were resplendent with mammoth arrangements of red and white carnations and red candles in silver candelabra but few took more than a passing glance as they queued to help themselves to the sandwiches and petits fours that disappeared almost as soon as the hotel staff brought them in.

IMPATIENT

One man decided not to wait until the refreshments were put on the table. He stood on tiptoe to scoop two handfuls of sandwiches from the tray a waiter carried high above guests heads.

Another eager sampler of food was 11-year-old Murray Smith who did his best to make up for the cup of coffee he agreed to forego because he "wouldn't have been able to manage the cup in the crowd."

Also showing a healthy interest in the rapidly disappearing refreshments was a group of four young boys.

They were Christopher Kissinger, Terry Boyko, Patrick and Kevin Hourigan, there with Mrs. M. Kissinger who looked delighted in a hat she'd "whipped up" that morning. Unappreciative of creative art, her young charges referred to it as a "flycatcher hat" but this didn't phase the dark-haired mother a bit.

Another "do-it-yourselfer" was heard telling her friend, "I made my dress from a Paris original model—and, my dear, the material cost me $20 a yard."

Victoria M.L.A. Donald Smith, never blinked an eye as he was caught handling out sandwiches just as His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes arrived and the orchestra struck up the first four chords of the National Anthem.

He stood, a tray of goodies poised in his left hand and a sandwich clutched high in the air with his other hand—and not a muscle moved.

FROM MAINLAND

Oldsters, too, were out in force. They included two busloads of Social Crediters that proudly sported white and green ribboned name cards and quietly told you that they'd come over from Vancouver at a "special rate of $5 return."

Wide-brimmed hats were seen everywhere. Could be their owners wore them for practical reasons as well as artistic. The extra inches gave them an edge on their smaller-bellied sisters as they practised tea-time ju jitsu with their tea cups and plates.

Others, with the wariness of professionals, slid into recesses of a folding screen to sip the precious beverage. Hardly was a cup emptied by its owner than there was another guest ready to take her place in the convenient "sanctuary."

Either on a diet or unable to face the sandwich scramble, one man made his way back to his group of friends. In one hand he held a solitary olive mounted on a saucer.

But in spite of this man's stringent quota, the government's guests stayed long enough in the sticky-warm atmosphere to demolish 45,000 sandwiches, 38,000 petits fours, 80 gallons of coffee and 75 gallons of tea.

TWO LEADERS DEBATE
CANADA'S DEFENCESIn
Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

With its roaching of snowy ostrich plume and its archaic elegance, the fore-and-aft hat worn by the lieutenant-governor to the Thursday opening was very fine head-gear indeed.

But the Throne speech which issued from under its beak, though spoken loud and clear, was so feeble an effort that I regret Mr. Pearkes as Her Majesty's emissary was required to lend it the dignity of his office.

I don't propose to waste much space on the premier's wet firecracker, except to note that Mr. Bennett, usually a brilliant showman, must do better than this if he hopes to retain the favor of provincial voters more inclined to look Social Credit gift horses in the teeth than they were a year ago.

Goodies were promised by the premier, and—one danger constant when a party retains its place by bread and games—the taxpayer expects to receive.

Two Are New

So much for Mr. Bennett's failure to magic the anticipated rabbit from under the ostrich-trimmed hat. I offer you now a more amiable spectacle: the seating in a traditional and graceful little ceremony of two new members in our House.

Surplus Pays
Bridge Debt

Premier Bennett will splurge $33,000,000 of his budget surplus this year to pay off the debt on five toll bridges, the Times learned today.

The tolls will come off April 1. Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi disclosed in an interview.

"There'll be no debt," he said.

"Immediately the bridges are toll-free they'll be paid for."

The five bridges are Vancouver's First and Second Narrows, and Okanagan Lake, Nelson and Agassiz.

Total outstanding debt on these bridges at last March 31 was $33,209,998.

Mr. Gagliardi said the debt will be paid off from the government's general revenue surplus fund, built up from budget to budget over the years.

This is the debt breakdown on the five bridges as of March 31 last:

First and Second Narrows $17,476,689; Okanagan $7,868,421; Nelson $4,009,471; Agassiz $3,855,417.

The bridges all received government subsidies to meet operational costs. The three up-country bridges all lost money.

B.C. Power
Shares Lose
Up to $1.65

Shares of B.C. Power Corp. Ltd. lost up to $1.65 in stock market trading as a result of failure of the B.C. throne speech to make any mention of further compensation for confiscation of the B.C. Electric.

B.C. Power shares traded as high as $23 earlier in the week on speculation that a new deal might be announced. The stock closed Thursday at $22½, just prior to the reading of the speech at the opening of the B.C. legislature.

The stock was quoted at $21½ at the opening today, eased off to $21, moved up slightly to $21½, and then slid back to $21 again near the close.

Sign of the Dog

Simple folk who believe in signs and portents read any number of meanings into appearance of dog at formal opening of legislature Thursday. For instance, it was black—so, who is frightened? It was a pooch—so, was throne speech a mutt? Was it an expression of opinion of government? Or was it merely one of Victoria's stray canine oafs which invariably clowns up such an occasion?

'Empty Speech'
Leaves House
In QuandaryBy FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The B.C. legislature opened Thursday with what Opposition leaders branded "an empty speech" from the throne outlining few government plans for 1963.

It pricked the balloon of speculation which was puffed up by Premier Bennett's refusal to release advance copies as usual to the press.

The speculation was that it contained something of extreme importance and that the important thing concerned a new deal on the government's B.C. Electric takeover.

B.C. Electric wasn't mentioned. Nor was any new power policy. The 2,000-word speech read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was longer and yet less newsworthy than usual.

There was no mention of the premier's promise to double the homeowner grant, nor many other legislative and policy expectations.

Asked why the secrecy, Mr. Bennett later told reporters: "That's this government, my friends—fair play for everybody and special privileges for none."

If there was any real reason, it was apparently the fact that the speech contained so little news.

The stories about the secrecy and B.C. Electric made up for the disappointing contents. The closest thing to a sur-

VANCOUVER (CP) — E. Davie Fulton, a political veteran at 46, stepped into the British Columbia political arena today.

He was unopposed for the leadership of the provincial Progressive Conservative Party when nominations closed at noon today, the second day of the party's annual meeting and leadership convention.

Reuter's
Chief
Dies at 50

LONDON (Reuters) — Walton Adamson Cole, 50, general manager of Reuters news agency and one of the most distinguished figures in world journalism, died here today.

Cole collapsed in his office this afternoon. He recently had suffered a severe bronchial attack, but appeared to be making a gradual recovery and had returned to work.

But his health continued to give rise to some anxiety and he planned to enter hospital within the next few days.

Tony Cole, as he was known to news executives and friends in practically every part of the five continents, in a meteoric climb to the top of his profession achieved the editorship of the world news agency when he was 33.

He was only 47 when he was appointed to its executive direction as general manager.

With a possibly unparalleled record of travel on Reuters affairs, he had established close contacts with leaders of the newspaper business in all parts of the world.

He had met and talked with most of the world's political leaders—among them President Kennedy, ex-president Eisenhower, Premier Khrushchev, Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Yi, heads of European states and practically all Commonwealth leaders.

Mrs. McGrath reported to police she had not heard from her husband since he left home.

The two men were driving a red and white truck.

'Evasion'
Says
Pearson

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson today branded Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's refusal to make a firm commitment on nuclear weapons for Canada a complete evasion of national responsibility.

The Liberal leader, on the second day of a special Commons debate on defence, reiterated his party's contention that this country had no present alternative but to accept nuclear arms at home and abroad to meet commitments made more than three years ago. (See also Page 23).

"It is humiliating and dishonorable for Canada to make commitments and not discharge them," he said. "Canada cannot maintain a position of respect and influence in world affairs in such a situation."

The prime minister's stand, as outlined to last week's Conservative meeting, that the government should not make any firm commitment while western defence policy was in a state of flux was "only an argument for not doing anything," Pearson said.

NO EXCUSE

"To us this as an excuse for inaction doesn't make any sense," he said. "Let us keep our pledged word; let's end this complete evasion of responsibility."

"We can only do that by acquiring nuclear warheads for our tactical weapons."

Pearson argued that this country has been committed to a nuclear role "beyond any shadow of doubt" since 1959.

He read into the record a series of statements by Diefenbaker and the then defence minister George Pearkes suggesting that a bilateral agreement to acquire nuclear warheads would be negotiated with the United States.

"This all confirms from the highest sources in the Canadian government what NATO and Canadian military leaders have been saying is the case—that there is indeed a nuclear commitment to the people of Canada and to our allies," the Liberal leader said.

Indications were that Diefenbaker would put the government's position on the record before the day was out.

OTHER POINTS

Besides reiterating his party's stand on nuclear arms, Pearson made several other points, including:

A defence of retiring NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad who, during a recent farewell visit to this country, said Canada needed nuclear arms to meet its NATO commitments. Pearson called Norstad a "NATO statesman," and accused the government and opposition parties of "denigrating him and tearing him down" simply because his views did not agree with theirs.

An attack on anti-Americanism in Canada as "no proof of our Canadianism, but only our immaturity." While life beside a giant neighbor created problems and required constant attention by this country, "it must always be remembered that the greatest danger we have of losing our freedom comes not from U.S. imperialism but from Communist imperialism," he said.

Coming — Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that Canada will "secure clarification" of its NATO defence plans and dispositions at the May meeting here of the NATO ministerial council.

He said the strike-reconnaissance role of the RCAF air division in Europe has been "placed under doubt" by the Anglo-American pact of Nassau.

The government had undertaken to equip the air division for strike-reconnaissance, including delivery of nuclear weapons, Mr. Diefenbaker added.

MADE MISTAKES

He said all Western nations have made military mistakes which had amounted to more than $3,000,000,000 up to 1960.

But a mistake which might or might not have been made by the government should not be the basis for a continuation of policy.

More nuclear arms "will add nothing materially to our defences," the prime minister said.

Greater and greater emphasis must be placed on conventional forces, he said.

He did not immediately elaborate on these statements beyond quoting George H. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, as saying there should be no further nuclear weapons.

Referring to "the new concept" in defence, Mr. Diefenbaker said this calls for a Polaris missile delivered from a submarine. The day is past when missile sites should be built firmly on land, he said.

Longest of U.S. orbital flights may be undertaken May 2 by astronaut Gordon Cooper. Current plans call for 18 orbits of earth in 27 hours, or up to 22 orbits if flight is going well.

Weather
In Europe
Warms Up

LONDON (AP) — Europe's killer winter—which already has claimed more than 200 lives—showed signs today of slackening its grip on parts of northern Europe.

Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Bulgaria and parts of the Soviet Union were hit as the winter's fury concentrated on the south.

In Denmark, Germany and Belgium it was getting a little warmer. Britain, almost totally snowbound for more than a month, expected a slight thaw within 24 hours.

The normally sunny coasts of Spain and Portugal were struck by fierce storms. Nearly 300 persons waited through the night for rescue from two Spanish ships in difficulties in storm-ravaged bays of southern Spain.

Gales and rainstorms struck at the southern Spanish coast, smashing several fishing boats. Storms in Portugal sank two fishing craft of Vila Real and destroyed 14 more in Sagres Harbor.

Stage Line Requests Fare Boost

Veteran Stages Ltd. has asked the Public Utilities Commission for permission to increase fares.

The firm, which operates a bus service to rural areas west of Victoria, is seeking an increase from rates which now are generally 4 1/2 cents a mile to a standard rate of five cents per mile.

A 20 per cent reduction in fare will be offered on all return trips if the PUC approves the application, a spokesman for Veteran Stages said.

Anyone wishing to oppose the firm's application to the PUC can file an objection with the Superintendent of Motor Carriers, 1740 West Georgia Street, Vancouver 5, up to Feb. 2.

M. P. HUNTER, City Clerk.

MAYSE

McGeer, Vancouver Point Grey, whose mother wore a red Liberal rose for the occasion. But since Thursday was a day for hats, we'll pass on to Mrs. Margaret Francis Hobbs, Revelstoke's NDP gift to the House.

Mrs. Hobbs' bonnet, on an afternoon and in a place where the millinery adds piquancy to a scene already florid, was a veritable tossed salad in new leaf green. In dress to match, Mrs. Hobbs rose as two seniors of her party-red carpet and halted before her.

One on either side, they escorted her toward the Speaker, North Okanagan's Hon. L. H. Shantz.

Opposition Leader Strachan gripped the fledgling legislator firmly by his right forearm as if he feared she might panic and flit the coop.

Durable Arthur Turner from Vancouver East cupped her left hand delicately in his palm; and thus they proceeded up the aisle to the Speaker's chair—to recognition, acceptance, and a desk-thumping ovation from ministers and members.

For myself, observing from a press gallery where I last wore my elbows shiny a good many years past, Thursday was a day of ghosts. The shade who stood clearest was a heavy set little man with a big voice; eloquent, truculent, and almost hypnotically persuasive.

His name was Thomas Dufferin Pattullo, Cassandra-like in 1941, Premier Pattullo battled against the proposed coalition which he felt would cripple the Liberal party he had spent 13 years revitalizing in B.C.

Finally he loaded his political fortunes on an ultimatum, hurled it, and lost.

Later, in a crowded room of the Hotel Georgia suite where his party broke Duff Pattullo's sword for him, reporters asked the old warrior for a statement.

What words he muttered, I forget, but this I do remember: while he spoke, his tears dripped on my notes.

Not the Same

"The only Liberal left," as he termed himself, sat on until 1945. But he was never the same man.

I remember others who once graced our House . . . John Hart with his kingfisher crest of silver-white hair . . . the Winches, deliberate father and bothead son, and very good men both . . . but it was Duff Pattullo's ghost that kept returning Thursday as we learned among other trenchant facts that pig iron production has risen at Kimberley.

Rejection of arguments that nuclear weapons was a moral issue on grounds such a stand was "dishonest and hypocritical" unless Canada quit NATO and refused to sell uranium to any nation for military purposes.

He said three nuclear warhead carriers acquired at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars—the CF-104 strike-reconnaissance aircraft, the Voodoo jet interceptor, and the Bomarc missile—are useless without the warheads.

It was completely absurd to argue, as the government had done, that the Bomarc and other nuclear carriers could be armed after the start of a world-wide emergency.

Mr. Pearson said the Cuban crisis demonstrated that Canada should reach an agreement with the U.S. before a new emergency can develop on the armament of the three nuclear carriers.

"This has become an intolerable situation."

British Newsman Jailed for Contempt

LONDON (Reuters) — Desmond Clough, 33, a London newspaper man who refused to disclose his sources of information to a British security tribunal, was sentenced to six months in jail today after being found guilty Thursday of contempt of court.

Clough, defence reporter for the mass-circulation Daily Sketch, said after his conviction on the contempt charge by England's lord chief justice, Lord Parker, he would appeal the verdict.

Clough's case was handed on to the high court last week after he refused to disclose his sources to a tribunal investigating naval security following the trial last year of admiralty clerk John Vassall, jailed for 18 years for spying for Russia.

The tribunal asked Clough to name his sources for a newspaper report that Vassall's espionage had helped Soviet trawler fleets to arrive with "uncanny precision" in the area of NATO sea exercises.

Clough told Lord Parker it was a point of conscience not to betray the person who gave him the information. He added that the source was employed in Whitehall, the British government administrative centre.

Montreal Man New Manager Of Empress

Leslie C. Parkinson of Montreal will succeed retiring Cyril Chapman as manager of the Empress Hotel on March 1 R.

A Mackie, general manager of Canadian Pacific Hotels, announced in Montreal Thursday night.

Mr. Parkinson commanded the catering services of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps at Aldershot, England, during the Second World War and was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

He joined Canadian Pacific Hotels at the Royal York in 1929 and was manager of the Digby Pines Hotel, Digby, N.S., and Chateau Lake Louise in the Rockies before his appointment as manager of food and beverage services for all CPR hotels in 1938.

In Victoria today, Mr. Parkinson spoke highly of Mr. Chapman's work in expanding the hotel's services and bringing more tourists here.

"I intend to carry on what Mr. Chapman has been doing in the line of tourist promotion," he said.

Mr. Chapman joined the CPR hotels at Montreal in 1923. He was successively assistant manager of the Hotel Saskatchewan, Regina; Chateau Lake Louise, the Royal Alexandra in Winnipeg, the Banff Springs Hotel and the Royal York.

Before coming to Victoria he was for 20 years manager of the Log Chateau at the Seignior Club, Montebello, Que.

He is a member of Victoria Golf and Country Club and plans to remain in Victoria.

Spain Asks Parley

MADRID (UPI) — Spain has officially told the United States it intends to seek new negotiations over the U.S. military bases in this country, it was reported today.

Dock Contract Near

NEW YORK (UPI) — Longshoremen in the New York-New Jersey area voted over-whelmingly to accept a new contract settlement that would end the lengthy waterfront strike, the International Longshoremen's Association reported today.

However, obstacles to a contract agreement in two cities still dimmed hopes that a back-to-work order would be issued this weekend in the Maine-to-Texas walkout.

Herring Plan Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — A recommendation that would allow Japanese fishing vessels to take herring off the west coast of British Columbia's Queen Charlotte Islands is under study by the government, it was reported Thursday.
